INDIAN REFORMS.

NEGLECTED DIFFICULTIES.

[BY T. BARAK WELBY, SECRETARY OF THE EUROPEAN ASSOCIATION OF INDIA.]

The Montagu-Chelmsford scheme has at least one feature that may be supposed to be without precedent in the history of political progress. It is the only scheme ever put forward to establish democratic institutions in which the details are elaborated, while the fundamental question of the electorate is left over for subsequent inquiry. A committee to investigate the possibility of creating adequate electorates in India has since been appointed, and no one who is familiar with Indian conditions will deny to its chairman, Lord Southborough, the sympathy needed by any man engaged in so unpromising a task.

What are the materials for an electorate in India? The electorate which now sends members to the Provincial Legislative Councils is very much too narrow to be regarded as representative of the Indian people. For example, in Madras, the province with which, as late editor of the Madras Mail, I am most familiar, the members elected to the Provincial Legislative Council by the non-official members of municipal councils and district boards, are between them directly representative of only 3,000 voters, and the Legislative Council as a whole directly represents only about 9,000 persons out of a population of, roughly, 40,000,000. How can this electorate be widened? Clearly, the provincial franchise cannot be given to men held unqualified for the municipal and local vote. Assuming that, by an excessively democratic measure, the provincial franchise were given to all who enjoy the municipal and local vote, that, in such a province as Madras, give us a large enough electorate? The fact, deny us hope. In the municipalities of the province the municipal voters bear to the municipal population a proportion varying from just over 1 per cent. to a little over 5 per cent. If we turn to the rural areas we find even lower figures. In one district, all voters show a proportion of less than 1 per cent. There are about a dozen other taluqs in which the proportion is lower than 1 per cent.; only in one case does it exceed 3 per cent. Can any substantial self-government be based on such electorates? It may, of course, be argued that the municipal and local voting qualification is capable of being lowered, but not by those who know that the possession or occupation of landed property of an annual rental value of just over £3 confers the municipal vote, and £2 is the qualification for the taluq vote.

COMMERCIAL REPRESENTATION. The truth is that by no means can there be called into being electorates numerically large enough to be regarded as representing anything more than a small fraction of the people, 5 per cent., perhaps, in some parts of the country, less than 1 per cent. in others. But that is not all. India is primarily an agricultural country; yet every scheme that can be devised with property or literacy qualifications gives the urban population over-representation. Further, India is the country of caste, and Mr. Montagu and Lord Chelmsford, by most unwisely denying communal representation to non-Brahmin Hindus, place the socially exclusive Brahmin, who already monopolizes education, law, and journalism, in a position to squeeze non-Brahmin Hindu candidates out of the Legislative Council.

The case against communal representation amounts to little more than this; it would be unfavourable to the development of Indian nationhood, in that it would perpetuate distinctions of race and creed and caste. That the very diverse peoples of India are capable of nationhood is merely a pious assumption, that they to-day desire it is simply untrue. They may develop both the capacity and the desire in years to come; but if so, it will be only under some system which, securing each community its rights, and particularly allaying the deep and natural anxiety of the backward and despised lower castes, facilitates co-operation. It is menaced rights that men are most aggressive in asserting; it is dread of being swamped that inspires the less desirable forms of parochial activity. Let communal representation remove the thoroughly justified fears of the non-Brahmin of Southern India, the Lingayats of Western India, and certain other sections of the people, and there may be some reasonable hope of co-operation. But let the scheme go forward without communal representation, and with a decrease in the numbers and power of the impartial British bureaucracy, and you will see in India a rapid intensification of racial and religious animosity, and a development of the already prepotent arrogance of the Brahmin, that must, in Southern India at least, gild the non-Brahmin masses to revolt if it does not crush their self-respect altogether.

Mr. Montagu and Lord Chelmsford would have these non-Brahmin bear all the ills resulting from denial of representation, in order that the ideal of nationhood may be realized. Well, men will bear many things for an ideal they cherish, but it is asking too much of them to demand that they should be martyrs for an ideal not theirs. Not 1 per cent. of the masses of India have the dimmest idea of nationhood, and as for the intellectuals of the Nationalist party, with a very few honourable exceptions, their ideals in Brahminical supremacy, the addition of a political monopoly to all the other monopolies they now enjoy.

POSITION OF INDIAN MINISTERS. The order, however, has gone forth for the achievement of Indian nationhood through the progressive realization of responsible government. On the narrowest of electoral foundations there is to rise up a quasi-Parliamentary system. If the masses remain apathetic, despite Mr. Montagu's resolve to disturb their "pathetic contentment," the intellectuals are to be given an education in representative or "responsible" government. To the present writer it appears an essential of such education by experience that the Indian Ministers appointed under the scheme should be judged by their dealings with the Ministry, for which they are responsible, and be practised in the business of securing the support of the Legislative Council, while carrying out their own policies. But our betters know better than we do. The Montagu-Chelmsford scheme established Indian Ministers who will have control over, and responsibility for, only the "reserved" departments, all others being reserved for the Governor in Council. That India may not crash to immediate ruin, the "reserved" departments are to be of minor importance, the vitally important departments being "reserved." Yet it is expected that an Indian Minister will be judged by his administration of a minor department, without reference to his attitude towards the immensely more important "reserved" departments. The expectation is vain. In nine cases out of ten the Minister will be supported or snailied by Indian legislators on account of his attitude towards what he is not responsible for, not by his acts in regard to what he is responsible for. And that is no small defect in a system designed to educate Indian Ministers in responsibility.

Proceeding, Mr. Montagu and Lord Chelmsford intend that the result of this experiment shall periodically be examined by an Inquiring Body, with a view to further transfer of departments to supposedly popular control. As the Ministers, however, are to be appointed by the Governor for the life of the Legislative Council, and are not to be dependent for tenure of office on the favour of non-official members of the Legislative Council, what they have done when they were independent of the non-official vote is to be the test of what they may be expected to prove capable of when they are dependent on it. No test would be more logical.

It must be remembered that there is no question of testing the general administrative ability of Indians. That is already tested, with Indians in the Executive Councils. The object is to foster and test the special ability whereby administration is carried on under the control of elected legislators. Yet the Ministers are to be put in office for a fixed term, and freed from all obligation to learn that art of persuading, managing, and, on occasion, deceiving the Legislature which is more than any other required under any form of representative government.

"TRANSFERRED" DEPARTMENTS.

It has already been remarked that the departments "transferred" will be at first those of minor importance. No doubt the choice will be varied, on the recommendations of a committee just appointed, from province to province. Mr. Montagu and Lord Chelmsford have produced a tentative list of departments that might in their opinion be made over to Indian Ministers, and they appear to have devoted much thought to this important question. There are, however, two considerations of moment which have escaped their notice. One, to which everybody well acquainted with India will allow weight, is that a situation of peril will result if the departments "transferred" like education, sanitation, medical relief, famine relief, are obviously benevolent departments, and the "reserved" are the departments which exact taxes and punish offences against a conception of the public weal by no means entirely appreciated in India. Even under the Montagu-Chelmsford scheme, the British official has his part to play for many years to come, and if he is seen by the people only in the odious rôle of tax-collector and punitive agent, while all homage comes from Indian Ministers in charge of "transferred" departments, his position will be impossible. The second consideration, totally ignored by Mr. Montagu, Lord Chelmsford, and all criticism I have yet seen, deserves a paragraph to itself.

Mr. Montagu and Lord Chelmsford seem to think that the progress they are initiating can be continued arithmetically until the last vestige of British bureaucratic rule vanishes, at the exact moment that Parliament perceives the fitness of the Indian people to manage their own affairs. The progress, however, for those who will immediately state, is bound to be geometrical, till the edge of the abyss is reached, and then there will be a plunge to the bottom, at a moment determined by something quite other than Parliament's conviction of the fitness for complete self-government. The reason is not far to seek. With every department "transferred" it becomes a little more difficult to exercise authority in the departments "reserved." The people, no longer in contact with disinclined British authority at every turn in their daily lives, will lose the habit of ready obedience to it. In a country so huge as India, where great areas are far removed from the headquarters of British authority; where the population is mainly illiterate, credulous, and incapable of understanding divided power; and where the problems of 80 per cent. of the people are just those which will immediately and easily "transferable" departments, the "reserved" authority of the British will become something very remote from and out of relation to the man in the field. It will be much harder to keep law and order in the name of an authority restricted to little more than tax duty, and known to be preparing to abandon Indian administration altogether, than it has been to keep law and order in the name of an authority obviously omnipresent and apparently permanent. This practical difficulty, I confidently predict, will force Great Britain, if she once enters on the Montagu-Chelmsford experiment without better safeguards than its authors provide, to abandon the administration of India years before, in the judgment of Parliament, India is really fit to govern herself unaided.

EFFECT ON THE CIVIL SERVICE.

I am the more certain of this, because, if the Montagu-Chelmsford scheme goes through in its present form, the supply of British candidates for the Indian service will fall short of the number required to continue the dual system till full self-government. The authors of the scheme propose, as regards the Indian Civil Service, that 33 per cent. of vacancies should be filled by the appointment of Indians, and that this percentage should be increased by 13 each year. They count, evidently, on being able to regulate the recruitment of young Englishmen for the service exactly to the convenience of their scheme. But what will happen when this increase in the Indian element has proceeded for a few years? The best type of British candidate will cease to offer himself. The attractions of an Indian career have been declining for at least a decade; and the prospect of entering a Service in which the candidate's countrymen are continuously diminishing in numbers, and so far as they retain control of authority, are condemned to the most unpopular of duties, will not be alluring.

Social reasons will operate also to discourage British candidates. The young civilian has long spells of work in district centres where, even now, European society is composed of an infinitesimal number of officials and their wives. Introduce more Indians, and a good many of these out-of-the-way stations will be socially intolerable, for worthy as most of the Indian officials may be, their recreations and unofficial interests are usually quite other than those of Englishmen, and the ladies of their households cannot be companions to Englishwomen. All this may sound ridiculously trivial to Padgett, M.P., but anyone who has lived in a small Indian station will admit that European residents are perforce dependent on each other, to a degree almost unimaginable by the reader in the home country, not merely for frivolous amusement, but for the means of keeping themselves mentally fit. The writer is acquainted with Englishmen in India, who have lived for months at a time out of reach of European society, and in every case there was an appreciable loss of mental efficiency, accompanied by a tendency to brood over minor petty official worries; in some cases, there was marked moral decline.

Neither Mr. Montagu nor another can compel British candidates to enter the Indian Civil Service. Young men capable of securing the higher places in the competitive examination for that Service must find attractive and well-paid work elsewhere, and as soon as they grasp what the new conditions are, the bulk of them will decline to seek a career in India. It is not by 13 per cent., but after a few years, by 10 or 20 per cent., that the British element will fall off, and even of those who come few will be of the very best stamp.

NON-OFFICIAL EUROPEANS.

The British element in the administration of India, then, is not only, in accordance with the wishes of Mr. Montagu and Lord Chelmsford, to be reduced in numbers and to shed responsibility for policy in department after department; that might be regarded as an inevitable concomitant of any progress towards self-government in India. It is destined to fall off at a rate the authors of the scheme do not expect, and would not desire; to lose in quality, which Mr. Montagu and Lord Chelmsford are avowedly anxious to prevent; and, unless great care can be taken in the choice of departments "transferred," to lose also in popularity. The outlook is the darker because the Montagu-Chelmsford scheme gives nothing like a gradual political opportunities to the European non-official community in India, from whom alone the weakening European official element can expect aid in upholding British ideals of administration, recognised by the majority of Indians themselves as necessary for India.

The European non-official community, composed of merchants, bankers, traders, printers, lawyers, and others, now organized in the European Association, of which the present writer is the secretary, has headquarters in Calcutta, and branches in Bombay, Madras, the United Provinces, Behar, Assam, Burma, and elsewhere. Its membership substantially exceeds the numerical strength of any constituency represented in the Imperial Legislative Council; but all the representation that the European non-official community has in that Council is through two members, returned respectively by the Calcutta and Bombay Chambers of Commerce. In the Provincial Legislative Councils European representation is through the nominees of Chambers of Commerce, planters' associations, and trades associations. This thoroughly unsatisfactory state of affairs, in which many Europeans, not being eligible for membership of the Chambers of Commerce, etc., have no representation at all, and in which men of political aptitude are very unlikely to find their way into the Councils, is not altered by the Montagu-Chelmsford scheme. Hence the demand of the European Association for communal representation of Europeans, to supplement that given to certain sectional European interests, though with-out exceeding the total representation due to Europeans. Parliament will be well advised if it insists on this demand being met, for, with the British official eliminating himself, it is only the grant of communal representation to European non-officials that can provide the masses of India with supporters against the arrogant pretensions of a section of the "politically-minded" Indian minority, guarantee fair treatment for Indian Christians and certain other classes, and ensure that the economic development of India shall not be hampered.—Daily Telegraph.

STAINER'S "CRUCIFIXION."

ORATORIO AT ST. JOHN'S
CATHEDRAL

The rendering of Stainer's well-known sacred oratorio, "The Crucifixion," by a combined choir of 77 voices, at St. John's Cathedral, on Good Friday, hardly came up to the high expectations of some, in spite of the fact that the work contained much easier music than either "Elijah" or "The Messiah," both of which have been sung in the Cathedral in past years. The Church was crowded. The collection taken at the close of the Service amounted to $317.

When the congregation was assembling Mr. J. W. White performed four pieces at the organ. Unfortunately, Faulkes' Fantasia March and Harwood's Requiem Aeternam lost some of their solemnity, because of the noise which prevailed.

The opening piece "And they came to a place called Gethsemane" was rendered by the Hon. Mr. Claud Severn, who modulated his voice well in singing this very plaintive air. He was followed by Mr. Bewley Bird, who undertook the greater part of the baritone solos. In the next recitative, Mr. Bird, who has a good bass voice, took the passage meant for a baritone. The allegro movement for tenor solo was well suited to Mr. A. E. Paine's clear voice. The last response "Art Thou the Christ?" was well rendered by Mr. H. J. E. Jones, though his words might have been enunciated a little more distinctly. That Mr. White had given careful attention to the training of the chorus was plain from the manner in which the full choir rendered the procession to Calvary, with a grand finale in "Fling wide the gates."

The leads in all the voices were really good, although the general effect would have been even better if the contraltos had been stronger. After another short piece by Mr. Claud Severn, "How sweet is the grace," in which he was heard to greater advantage, Mr. Bird sang "And when they were come." When Mrs. Molire Johnston took the soprano solo in the "Cross of Jesus" the congregation hung on her words. Mrs. Johnston, in "Elijah" last year, gave an almost perfect interpretation of the part allotted to her. After "He made Himself" by Mr. Bird came Mr. Paine's solo "King ever glorious." The piece lost nothing in sweetness of expression, but for the majestic finale a more robust tenor would have been heard to better advantage. The double quartette "God so loved the world" was well rendered, except that the contraltos and tenors were not well balanced. When the full chorus came in the effect was all that could be desired, the piece being a familiar one to most of the choir. The duet "Love divine, all love excelling," although not forming part of "The Crucifixion," was introduced, and in it Miss L. White and Mr. Paine reached a standard which it would be very hard to beat in Hongkong.

The voices blended so perfectly, and with such clearness did Mr. Paine's notes in the higher register reach all the corners of the building that the item was rightly considered the gem of the evening. The hymn "Lift up the Passion" was sung by the full choir. It was a pity that, as a soloist, Mrs. Otto Kong Sing was given so little to do, for she has a very natural and sweet voice, and her interpretation of the words of Intercession was very appealing. Mr. Johnston, Mrs. Kong Sing and Miss White would have been heard to great advantage if they had been allotted some piece in the nature of a trio, for the last-named has a most charming and tender voice, which would have balanced with Mrs. Johnston's powerful soprano. The short recitative "Father, forgive" might have been more softly rendered by the tenors and basses, in comparison with the soloist, Mr. Severn, who rendered his small phrase "Then said Jesus" in the manner intended by the composer. A body of voices, however great in number, can, with a little attention, produce the most pianissimo effect, but, as it was, the meaning of the very solemn words of "Father, forgive," was certainly lost.

The duet "So Thou liftest Thy Divine petition," by Messrs. G. Davis and H. J. E. Jones, was aptly divided, as both the voices were well balanced and the tone was good, though, once again, the enunciation of the words by the bass was faulty. In the "Mystery of Intercession," by the full choir and semi-chorus, which sounded well, it was made evident that the semi-chorus work should have been given to other promising voices in the large choir, instead of using the services of the same individual voices that had been entrusted with all the solo and duet parts up to that time.

The recitative "And one of the malefactors," by Messrs. Bewley Bird, S. Hamer and H. J. E. Jones, went well. The hymn "I adore Thee" contained one verse exquisitely rendered as a solo by Miss L. White. When Jesus therefore saw His Mother" was well interpreted by the tenors and basses, with Messrs. A. E. Paine and H. J. E. Jones in leading parts. The most difficult chorus movement of the oratorio, "The appeal of the Crucified," with the climax "Crucify" was exceedingly well sung by the chorus, the soprano, especially, being heard to advantage. "It is finished," by Mr. Severn, was very sympathetically rendered. The oratorio concluded with the familiar hymn "All for Jesus."

Those who took part were as follows:—Soprano, Mrs. Molire Johnston; Miss L. White, Mrs. O. Kong Sing, Mr. C. Bewley Bird, Mr. A. E. Paine and the Hon. Mr. Claud Severn.

FOR USE IN TRIAD SOCIETY FIGHT.

CHINESE IN POSSESSION OF A REVOLVER.

At the Magistracy, on Saturday, before Mr. R. E. Lindell, a Chinese was charged with being in unlawful possession of a revolver.

Defendant was arrested on April 13th and, when searched, a loaded revolver was found tied to his waist. His defence was that he had been hired by a Chinese to carry the revolver. The Police tried to discover the second man but failed.

Sergt. Fallon said the revolver was not intended for use in armed robberies, but for use in fights in connection with Triad Societies.

Mr. Lindell sentenced defendant to six months' hard labour.

ALLEGED THEFT FROM THE WHARF AND GODOWN CO.

At the Magistracy, on Saturday, before Mr. R. E. Lindell, the master of a lighter and his brother were charged with stealing seven bags of saltpetre, valued at $500, belonging to the Wharf and Godown Co. An Indian watchman was charged with aiding and abetting the offence.

Mr. A. E. Hall appeared for the defence.

Inspector Gordon stated that the lighter was engaged to take delivery of a cargo of saltpetre from the Kwong-sung. Whilst the tallyman was engaged in tallying the bags the defendants, it was alleged, managed to shift the bags and manipulate the tally sticks in such a manner as to evade suspicion. During the night the same men were seen removing some bags from the lighter, and these, later, were found to contain the missing saltpetre.

The case was remanded till to-morrow.

OPIUM SMUGGLING.

At the Magistracy, on Saturday, before Mr. R. E. Lindell, a Chinese was charged with being in unlawful possession of 13 tacks of opium.

Defendant was arrested at Yau-mai Station, and the opium was found tied round his leg.

Mr. Lindell fined defendant $1,000, with the alternative of six months' hard labour.

Three Chinese women were charged with being in unlawful possession of a quantity of non-Government opium.

Inspector Wildin arrested the women at a boarding-house in Connaught Road. Two of the women were fined $1,000 each, and the third was fined $400.

JUVENILE SOCIETY.

SIXTH ANNUAL ATHLETIC MEET.

A pleasant afternoon was spent on Saturday by the children of the local Portuguese community, when the Juvenile Society—an organization which aims at promoting the physical and moral development of Portuguese children—held its sixth annual athletic meeting at the Race Course. There were over three hundred happy boys and girls, who, when not participating in any of the events, lined the railings and cheered their friends. Amongst the adults present was Mr. E. V. M. R. de Sousa, Consul for Portugal. The Committee, who made the arrangements, drew up a long programme of 22 events, and over 97 competitors entered. Keen enthusiasm was displayed, and some excellent finishes were witnessed. The half-mile race, (open) was won by F. Rodrigues after a hard struggle with J. Ribeiro, who took second place. The mile bicycle race, also, was well contested. In the 100 yards race for boys between 6 and 10 years, there were three dead-heats. The event had to be run off three times and was eventually won by B. Gosano. Two amusing events were the Ladies' nomination race and the centipede race. In the former the competitors were adults of both sexes and had to range themselves opposite each other. Each gentleman then ran with a candle to the opposite lady, who lit it, and the competitor who reached the winning-post first with the candle lighted was awarded the prize. F. L. Silva, who was nominated by Miss Cruz, won and B. Marques, nominated by Miss Ferraz, came next. The centipede race between teams representing Hongkong and Kowloon was won by the former. The competitors had to get cross-wise over a pole and "frog-march" to the winning-post. At the conclusion, the prizes were distributed by Miss Evelina da Rocha, who was, in turn, presented with a bouquet of flowers by Mr. D. C. Baptista, President of the Club.

THE RESULTS.

The following were the results of the sports:—

100 yds. flat race (handicap):—1, J. Silva; 2, N. Bragg.

WILL THEY LEARN THE LESSON?

Mr. S. Morrison, secretary to the London Labour Party, in an L.C.C. election article in the Woolwich Pioneer, quotes a letter to the Scottish Labour weekly, Forward written by a Clyde striker. The communication declares:—

"I was a striker, loyal to my class, but I have figured it out that 60,000 strikers earning on an average £3 a week and out for three weeks sacrificed £540,000. It would have financed a daily paper that would have got us the forty-hour week. It would have put some into thousands of heads where some is not. It would have made the workers of Scotland class-conscious, and there would have been enough money left over to finance every parliamentary fight, educational fight, and municipal fight for a long time."

Mr. Morrison's comment is: "This is also true of London. Let workers learn the lesson."

EASTER SERVICES IN HONGKONG.

AT ST. JOHN'S CATHEDRAL.

The various churches in the Colony were well filled at the different services yesterday Easter Sunday. St. John's Cathedral was crowded to its utmost capacity at the Choral Eucharist, matins and evensong. The sacred edifice had been chastely decorated for the occasion and presented a festive appearance. Those responsible for the decorations were Mrs. Beavis, Mrs. Hay, Mrs. Wake, Mrs. Murray, Mrs. Black, Mrs. Butlin, Miss Moxon, Mrs. Thursday, Mrs. Taylor, Miss Ventris, Mrs. Bevington, Mrs. Bowley and Mrs. Myburgh.

The Bishop was the celebrant at the Communion service, being assisted by the Rev. V. H. Copley, Myles, chaplain. At the 11 o'clock service special hymns were sung and Psalms chanted. There was a children's service in the evening. The offerings at the services yesterday amounted to about $300.

The Bishop, preaching at the morning service from the text:

"With great power gave the apostles witness of the resurrection of the Lord Jesus." (Acts 4 v. 33) said: "The clergy are sometimes asked to recommend books on religious subjects and they gladly do so whenever possible, but an impossible request was made some time ago. A Bishop was asked to suggest a book on the resurrection of Christ which must be conclusive, short and cheap. Deep religious subjects are not to be proved to the intellect like mathematical problems. They presuppose the right attitude of soul. It is with the heart as well as with the head that such a subject as the Resurrection of Christ must be apprehended. But I can recommend a book on the subject written long ago by a medieval man. It is short, you can read it through in an hour or two; it is cheap, you can buy it at the Bible Depot for a few cents; and it is conclusive to the devout. It is called 'The Acts of the Apostles.' This book, from beginning to end, asserts or assumes the fact of Christ's Resurrection. It is on every page. The Apostle preached many sermons in many places, they always chose the same text: 'God raised Jesus from the dead.' Great results followed this conviction of this fact, results which should have their parallel with us to-day if our convictions were decisive."

1. It settled all their doubts—there is a ring of certitude about all their witness; their trumpet gave no uncertain sound. Jesus is the divine Son of God. The same Jesus who was crucified on Calvary is now alive and able to save men. The crucifix with a figure of a dead Christ is an inadequate emblem of Apostolic Christianity. The empty cross, perhaps, surmounted by a crown is better. To-day the world needs to hear from the Christian Church the same note of certainty. Perhaps we can best get it back by studying, in a prayerful spirit, the attitude of those disciples for it is certain that the conviction that Christ has risen made them change the Jewish Sabbath to the Lord's Day, observe a weekly Eucharist, and so witness that thousands of people in Jerusalem itself became believers in their crucified Lord. 2. It empowered them to deal with sin. Their preaching and teaching never pandered to the tastes of their hearers. Because Jesus is raised and is coming again in judgment, repent, they cry. They said He had been raised to bless men by turning them away from their iniquities. Candidates for baptism had to be greatly in earnest, and lying and deceit were punished with death. Some people fondly imagine we have done with sin. Men objected to the title of the National Mission as a Mission of repentance, as if England had nothing to repent of. If we get back Apostolic Christianity it will bring conviction of sin as guilt in the sight of a righteous and sovereign God. 3. The fact of the Resurrection united the believers in one brotherhood and fellowship; they were of one heart and soul. The Holy Communion was a sacrament of real fellowship with their Lord and with one another, and none save the excommunicated, though of absenting themselves. We have at last discovered the lack of this fellowship in the Church of England. The report of the Archbishops' Committee on Evangelistic work says: "The lack of fellowship within the Church is at once a cause of stumbling to those without and a source of weakness to those within."

The idea of the Church as a fellowship is almost non-existent. Men do not see in the Church a brotherhood where those who worship together regard themselves as belonging to one family in Christ. There is a widespread impression that the Church is the Church of a class, of capital rather than labour. . . . and there are questions of Church administration, such as the pew-rent system, which many feel to be one of the greatest hindrances to Church attendance. We must resolutely face these alleged hindrances to fellowship so far as they apply to Hongkong. If dealt with in a right spirit we need not fear loss of revenue, but, even if such were involved, better a poor church with Christian fellowship for all classes than a rich one without it. Further, we must do all in our power to promote fellowship with all who serve our Lord, whether they belong to our fold or not. I hope when the time comes for the celebration of the looked-for Declaration of Peace Christians in this Colony will unite in praise to God and with one another, as Roman Catholics and Protestants, Episcopalians and Presbyterians, Methodists and Baptists, Anglicans and Congregationalists, and all other Christians, joining their voices in one grand chorus of praise to God and thus preparing an atmosphere for the consideration of great questions of Unity and Reunion.

4. The Resurrection of Christ, took away all fear of death, and answered their yearnings concerning their beloved dead. St. Stephen cheerfully laid down his life because he saw Jesus standing at the right hand of God. St. Peter slept calmly on the eve of what he believed to be his day of execution. St. Paul said "to depart was to be with Christ, which was far better." To them all, Christ had brought life and immortality to light. People who realise this will not seek help from spiritualism. There is far more comfort in the Communion of Saints in Christ than in any messages through mediums and table movements that some speak of. By all means let the Society for Psychical Research tell us all it can, and no doubt we have much to learn about the sub-conscious mind and telepathy, but never suppose those things can bring us any nearer our dead than they are in Christ. As we think of some dear one passed hence, we say:

"Death doth hide, but not divide. Thou art but on Christ's other side with me."

In Christ united still are we."

5. The Resurrection of Christ enabled them to revolutionize the world's thought. They were spoken of in Acts 17 as "the men who had turned the world upside down." Their teaching and in side doctrine were revolutionary; they really ran counter to the world's accepted ideas. Here is a sense in which the world needs to be turned upside down to-day. We must not be so much on the defensive; there is no need to apologise for Christianity; we must be far more aggressive. These are some of the results of a conviction that Christ is alive and with His Church. If these results are to obtain to-day it means that all members of our Church must take their churchmanship much more seriously. A Sunday Scholar was once asked if his father counted himself a Christian. "Yes," was the reply. "But he does not do much on it." "But he said of any of my or if any of you in this vast congregation to-day do not intend to do any more in your religion till, say, next Christmas, forgive me if I frankly say that such a meagre religion is very little good to you, a source of weakness to the Church, and a dishonour to our Lord Who died and rose again that you might live not unto yourselves but unto Him."

The Christians of the first century also believed that the risen Lord would come again to life the living and the dead. It would be well if faith in that article of our creed was also revived, however we may differ in our interpretation of the prophecies concerning the manner. When the Son of Man comes will He find faith on the earth?

AT THE UNION CHURCH.

The Rev. J. Kirk Macdonald preached an impressive sermon at the Union Church, yesterday morning. Mr. Macdonald, after reading the text, "The Kingdom of God is within you," effectively sang from the pulpit.

The singing was bright, the choir rendering an Easter anthem in excellent style. Taking as his text "Break forth into joy, ye waste places of Jerusalem," for the Lord hath comforted His people, He had redeemed Jerusalem (Isaiah 52, 9), the Rev. Mr. Macdonald said:

On December 11th, 1917, men literally wept for joy in the streets of Jerusalem. Some of them were Christians, some were Jews, many were Mussulmans, but all alike were moved beyond restraint, as General Allenby entered, unopposed, as on foot, by the Jaffa gate. The Sheikh in charge of the Mosque of Omar cried out, "Praise Allah! The British have come. Now we can live in peace and tranquillity. Our sufferings are at an end." The long-drawn strain of "God save the King" was sung with such words as those of my text and those round about it, would fit the occasion. "How beautiful upon the mountains are the feet of him that bringeth good tidings, who publisheth peace, who bringeth good tidings, who publisheth salvation, who saith unto Zion: Thy God reigneth." The waste places lie waste no longer. The age-long tale of oppression has reached its close. The city whose name is Peace will bear its name no longer as the satire of the centuries. "The Lord hath made his holy arm in the eyes of all the nations; yea, all the ends of the earth shall see the salvation of our God."

The ruined foundation wall which is all that remains of Jerusalem's glorious temple has been removed. For many a year the "wailing place" of the Jews. There, at certain sacred seasons, pious sons of the Covenant have been used to lament and abuse themselves for the lost liberties of Zion, and pray for the time when by warfare should be accomplished and her iniquity pardoned. To-day, we are told that the wailing place is deserted. The Jew is about to go back to his native home. Not in proud exclusiveness as once he might have wished but in a partnership of peace, side by side with others, to whom also the place is holy ground. The harp will be taken down and re-strung. No longer more will the virgin daughter of Zion sit in the dust.

Under whatever political oversight or arrangement it is, as certain as any such thing can be, the chosen race, though still dispersed throughout the wide world, is no longer to be without home and centre. No longer will it be a cruel irony to call for the songs of Zion as was done of the ancient captives beside the towers of Babylon. "The Lord's song" will be sung, not as with choking throat "in a strange land," but as the spontaneous outbreak of a home-coming to be kept with music and dancing.

"Break forth into joy" repeatedly in the fitting section of Isaiah the expression of gladness and joy because God has visited and redeemed His people. It is as the bursting of waters long pent up, joy which cannot be restrained, praise which nothing can keep back. The teller of good tidings needs no loud music to draw attention, and stir up mirth. All he need do is get him up into the high mountains and lift up his voice with strength. The chorus will break out of itself the moment men have wiped from their eyes the tears of joy. How useless it is exhorting people to be happy: how impossible to keep the joy from breaking out if you give them something to be happy about! The joy which does not break forth of itself is but an imitation affair, and blunts itself against the hard surface of life like the sham diamond used for glass-cutting.

We heard, I remember, shortly before the war, about leagues or societies, or whatever they were called, of men who banded themselves together to be "optimists" and spread optimism. They were to smile, to wear buttonholes; they were to affirm and believe that things were going famously; that they were well, that they were getting on; that everything was well and everybody getting on, and they were to keep that up no matter what the state of the markets or the weather or anything else. A kind of "Christian Science" principle applied to business it seemed to be, an attempt to escape from the truth by spreading the illusion that whatever is disagreeable is "optimistic" and spread optimism. They were to smile, to wear buttonholes; they were to affirm and believe that things were going famously; that they were well, that they were getting on; that everything was well and everybody getting on, and they were to keep that up no matter what the state of the markets or the weather or anything else. A kind of "Christian Science" principle applied to business it seemed to be, an attempt to escape from the truth by spreading the illusion that whatever is disagreeable is "optimistic" and spread optimism.

"Sing together, ye waste places of Jerusalem," you are not really waste at all, you are covered with flocks and fields and farmsteads nay, that is not the way in which the Lord comforts His people. There has come to us in God's goodness another happy Christian Easter-tide, the gladdest and most precious of all the festivals of the Church. If we realise at all what it means, we shall find ourselves breaking forth into joy as the Christian lyrics have done from the very first. You need sigh for neither Jubah's lyre nor David's harp nor the voice of a prima donna. Your own resources will do.

A year ago one cannot but recall that anniversary—the season fell earlier, Easter Sunday was the last day of March. It found us in a parlous case in respect of the great struggle then afoot, which was entering on its darkest phase. The great German drive was well begun, the enemy's forces, concentrated for a final effort, and as we know now, outnumbering our own, were pressing our armies into a desperate attempt to break the line, and it looked at times as though they would succeed. Who can ever forget the grim darkness of that time and the weeks just after it, when the road to Paris was in danger and the Channel ports seemed a possible prey? It seemed the very hour of the power of darkness. "Darkest just before the dawn"—the old saying proved true, but the dawn was slow and our hearts were heavy.

I think we ought to recall that time, for we experienced a deliverance whose magnitude and whose significance in the history of mankind will stand out greater and more impressive as future generations look back on it. The dawn was slow, but it came at length, and finally as the year was verging to its close came the Armistice, sooner than we could have looked for, and more complete. The news of the Armistice reached us, and nobody had to summon his neighbour to rejoice. The joy broke forth; nothing could have kept it back, indeed, what had happened might have caused the tongue to be dumb to sing and the lame man to leap as an hart. Men found themselves praising God who thought they had forgotten the way, calling upon the whole world round to join them, just as the prophet did of old, "Sing, O ye heavens, for the Lord hath done it; shout, ye lower parts of the earth; break forth into singing, ye mountains, O forest and every tree therein." That was true joy, real praise, genuine, spontaneous thanksgiving which broke from hearts that had been within sight of breaking for sorrow and distress.

We are to have "peace celebrations" of a formal kind one of these days when formal peace is signed. They will be premeditated and organised in a deliberate effort to do something "worthy of the Colony." I wish them well, but we shall do nothing more worthy than was done on those few surprising days before stocks of bunting and lanterns could be laid in, or Committees got together, but when relief and thankfulness carried all hearts out and upward in a mighty flood. The joy was there, and it had to break forth for once we phlegmatic islanders lost ourselves in excitement and enthusiasm, and forgot to be ashamed either of our laughter or our tears.

Now, if we turn to the story of the first Christian Easter day and of the years which followed as it is recounted in the New Testament, we find ourselves in the presence of a joy which cannot be restrained. "Then were the disciples glad when they saw the Lord," is the reserved understatement by St. Paul of the first disciples' feelings when first Jesus came and stood in the midst and spoke peace to them. St. Luke comes nearer the mark when he says they "disbelieved for joy." Of course they did: what other could they do? The thing had come to pass which had been too good to be true, and the artlessness of the historian comes out in his recording it.

You see God's good tidings in Christianity confront men with these two alternatives, either too good to be true or so good that they cannot be true. That is what His grace of restoration and redemption is, and everything depends on how you and I choose to take it. For my part I choose the second alternative. I have once glimpsed its transcendent, its incredible affirmation that God was in Christ, and I hold, with both heart and mind, that it is too good not to be true. If it is not true then some man or men must have imagined a better thing than God has done, and it is quite beyond me to believe that. Let me be glad because when I see the Lord, with faith and reason unite to say that the thing which might be must be, and let my doubts disappear as bats do when the sun shines.

The joy of the Lord simply brims over in the earliest Church. Life abundant had come among those people and had made them glad, in spite of all there was to be troubled about, and there was plenty. It seems to be thought that Christians nowadays are people who have taken a vow never to smile again, but in those earliest days we are told that men were continually in the temple praising God. Nowadays we go around with well-meant protestations that it is possible to be happy though one be a Christian. But those first believers did not need to tell that they were happy. People saw that much without being told, and it set them asking questions. They had their controversies in those early days, occasionally quite sharp. But we do not hear of controversies about instrumental music in the Churches. I think they would have been greatly surprised by anything of the kind, because they were so full of the real thing that it did not matter. If they had skilled players I have no doubt they employed their talents; but if not they would never be at a loss.

A man told me one Sunday not long ago that although the electric current had failed, and the organ could not be blown, it had been worth while coming to Church. I took that well, as it was meant, and I shall do the same if some other person, of a different taste, should tell me it has been worth while coming in spite of the organ. "Awake, psalmist and harp," cries the soul breaking forth into joy. I myself will awake right early. The psalmist who said that knew that the "I myself" part of it was the essential one. What is the good of a live psalmist and a sleepy psalmist, a ready harp and a drowsy singer? A beautiful organ and a congregation that comes to Church by fits and starts. Right early is the hour to awake, when your heart is breaking forth into joy. Did you need an alarm clock on your wedding morning? I fancy not, and if the bride was late at Church it was doubtless more convenient.

We read of disciples once "sleeping for sorrow," but no one ever yet overslept himself for joy. And, however early you are a font you will never fail to find that God has been before-hand with you, "pre-vented" you with His goodness. I cannot imagine you will ever get ahead of Him with your anticipations. The story of the first Easter day began before very dawn, devout followers made their way to the Master's tomb with spices for the embalming, "early, while it was yet dark." But heavenly attendants had been there before them; the stone was rolled aside, the tomb was empty, their mourning was turned into joy, and they departed eagerly to spread the tidings which were too good to be true, so good that it could not but be true, and which has ever since been heartening sorrow, sluggish-hearted men and women to hope for "newness of life in Christ Jesus," with a new song in their mouth, "O grave where is thy victory?"

The Lord hath comforted His people. He hath redeemed Jerusalem, in a world-wide sense of which the transformation of the wailing-place in old Jerusalem is but a symbol. He calls us into joy, not a worked-up, organised, make-believe brand of over-protecting optimism, lasting only as long as it can keep blinkers on its eyes, but the enduring hope which radiates from the Cross, the victory which is won in a life and death contest with evil, open eyed and at closest quarters.

And I think every Christian soul will say Amen if I say that on this Easter Day of 1919, of all that have ever dawned, it becomes us to raise our songs and triumphs high, for the history of the year between this Easter and last is without moral meaning if it is not a confirmation as plain and large as history can write it of the truth that power belongeth unto God and God only, and that His purpose of good toward the children of men is not to be frustrated by all the embattled hosts of hell. We can take on our life-to-day the triumph songs of the early Christians and feel that their strong imagery of speech and symbol, which had been wearing thin in an easy-going world, has been re-stamped as reality before our very eyes. Seeing these things in the great world what man shall despair of them in his own life and soul!

TRADE REPORT.

SUGAR.—The sugar situation has steadily improved during the past four months, and the progress made has been at a rate that was not considered probable, or even possible, prior to the signing of the Armistice in Europe. The Java crop is below the average of recent years and is now estimated at 22,500,000 piculs. Of this, the amount sold to date is approximately 9,000,000 piculs. In China markets, however, owing to keen Japanese competition, the selling prices are not so good as they ought to be. The same out-throat competition has demoralized the Argentine market, which, otherwise, should be in a very healthy condition.

RICE.—European markets are still buying through Government channels, but, judging by inquiries now being received, we believe that in some countries business will soon be done with buyers direct.

The U.S. markets have been quiet during the entire month, with the exception of some business done with Cuba. The West Coast of South America is still well supplied, but we are of opinion that as soon as freights come down to a parity with Pacific coastal freight rates business will be possible from China. The closing quotations are:—Siam Garden, $9.30; Siam Straight, $9. Siam Usual, $8.40; Saigon Round, $8.50; Saigon Long, $8.20; Packing none obtainable.

PEANUTS.—No change. PEANUT OIL.—No. 1 at $29 and No. 2 at $19.50, without business.

CASSIA.—Saigon 2/5/10 assortment is wanted at $43.50. CASSIA OIL.—75/80 per cent. at $228; 80/85 per cent. at $238.

ANISEED OIL.—15 degrees is offering at $362.

TEA OIL.—$13.25 is being asked by dealers. WOOD OIL.—Even at $10.75 there is no business.

TIN.—The quotations are unchanged. LARD.—Continues firm. Good brands fetch $35 for July shipment. GALVANIZED.—$40.50 nominal.

STAR-ANISEED.—Dealers want $25 for prompt delivery.

HIDES.—Cows, $4 1/2 lbs.; goats, $3 1/2 lbs.; and buffalo, $18/40 lbs.; and sheep, $12/40 lbs. are in good demand.

CORRESPONDENCE.

POLICE AND PEDESTRIANS.

TO THE EDITOR OF "THE HONGKONG DAILY PRESS."

Sir, May I enquire if there is any Ordinance relating to crossing the roads? There was a case the other day in which a gentleman crossed the road from Messrs. Jardine, Matheson & Co.'s office to the Hongkong Hotel and was arrested as a criminal, by a constable, and fined by the Magistrate. If such an order is in force we must fly in the air to cross from one street into the other.

Even suppose the constable had such instructions he should not arrest anyone brutally and ignominiously, but ask for the person's address and summon him; that is the proper course. It appears that some constables are abusing their power and treating people too roughly, which they have no right to do. This is an important point, and the constables ought to be warned at myself had a very rough push from one of these guardians of the peace in crossing Pedder Street to Queen's Road. It was a pity I did not take his number owing to the fact that I was in great haste to go to office, otherwise I would surely summon this constable for assault. Yours, etc.,

A VICTIM.

Hongkong, April 19th, 1919.

[We agree thoroughly with your correspondent. It is an old maxim that "the pedestrian has the first right to the road," and we think the Police would have some difficulty in convincing the Supreme Court that he has not any right. If it be an offence to disobey the directions of the Police, it is incumbent on the Police to justify the directions which they give; otherwise we might as well be in Zulu. Ed., H.D.P.]

THE POLICE RESERVE.

TO THE EDITOR OF "THE HONGKONG DAILY PRESS."

Sir, May I be allowed a space in your columns to refer to the last Police Reserve Order, whereby all Police Reserve Duties, with the exception of the Search Supervising Squad and the Mounted Patrols, are discontinued from the 18th inst.

The effect of this order on the Search Supervisors, composed mostly of members of the British Sections, is both unreasonable and unfair; for by reason of it, 30 to 40 men must carry on doing what they never volunteered to do on joining, whilst approximately 500 of their colleagues are released from their duties.

The order appears all the more unreasonable when it is considered that the Search Supervisors consist of men who joined up voluntarily during the first year of the organization of the force, while a very large number of those who are now released were "roped in" two years later; and, further, that only five Regulars are needed to release them.

Least it be argued that the Regulars can now be spared for search supervising, I must point out that a number of Regulars have been spared to release the Reserves from the cinema and theatrical duties—duties which cannot for a moment be said to be of such importance as search supervising and which are performed at the request of the cinema and theatrical companies, who pay the constables for their services.

It must not, however, be lost sight of that the Police Reserves were formed for the purpose of relieving the Regulars of the strain consequent upon many of them being gone to the front. Search supervising was not part of the duties of the Regular Police, but was created by Mr. Jenkin, compulsorily, a long time after the inception of the force without the slightest consideration for those who were "told off" to do the filthiest and most tedious job of the whole force. Verily, it is better to have been a shirker. Is it to be wondered at that the squad is simply seething with discontent?

For how long more are the supervisors to carry on?

Is militarism, which we indirectly assisted to defeat (so we are told) at this Colony over which the Union Jack flies—Yours, etc.,

THE ATTACK ON THE BRITISH CONSUL AT WUCHOW.

DISTRIBUTION OF THE MONETARY COMPENSATION.

Under the terms of settlement in connection with the assault committed by Chinese soldiers upon His Majesty's Consul at Wuchow and upon the Consular constable on February 20th, the sum of $10,000 was payable by the Kwangsi authorities. His Majesty's Minister at Peking has directed the apportionment of the sum as follows:—

Both Mr. Wyatt-Smith and Mr. Groves with their families have, as a result of their experiences, to proceed home on leave this year, and the sum of $2,500 and $1,800 are granted to them respectively for their expenses.

A gratuity of $400 is granted to the Consulate writer, Kung Siao-ching, in consideration of the valuable services rendered by him in connection with the assault.

A gratuity of $150 is granted to the Consulate Tinghai, Siao Kwei-ching, who came to the Consul's and Constable's assistance at the time of the assault and received injuries in consequence thereof.

A gratuity of $150 is granted to Su Ah-muk, a cottager living near by, who, at great personal risk, endeavoured to persuade the soldiers from continuing the assault.

The remaining $5,000, to be devoted to charitable work in Wuchow, has been divided equally between the Wesleyan Mission Hospital and the Stout Memorial

SIR HENRY MAY'S RESIGNATION.

DUE TO CONSIDERATIONS OF HEALTH.

INTERESTING CORRESPONDENCE.

The current issue of the Government Gazette contains the following interesting correspondence, relative to the retirement of Sir Henry May:

Hongkong, January 31st, 1919.
Dear Sir Henry May,—On the 21st January, I received a telegram from the Secretary of State for the Colonies as follows:

"Greatly regret to inform you that Governor has tendered resignation which I have accepted from end of February with much reluctance and warm thanks for his long and distinguished services. I do not doubt that this feeling will be fully shared by the Colony for which he has done so much."

To which I replied as follows on the 22nd January:—
"I have received with very great regret your telegram of January 20th announcing the resignation of the Governor. I propose to move a resolution at an early meeting of both Councils, to the effect that the Hon. Members of the Executive and Legislative Councils and the Public Press of which I enclose copies."

I also enclose a copy of the proceedings, at the joint meeting of both Councils, held on the 20th January. The speeches delivered reflect the general feeling of the community of this Colony. On the eve of what it is hoped will be a period of great development the loss of your wide experience and knowledge will be deeply felt. I desire, on behalf of the Colony, to convey to you, Sir Henry May, and to the members of your family an expression of sincere regret at your retirement, and of gratitude for the great services that you have rendered. Yours, etc.,

(Sd.) CLAUD SEVERN.

Buena Vista Hotel,

Cowichan, B.C., March 9th, 1919.

Dear Sir, I have the honour to acknowledge the receipt of your letter of the 31st of January covering copies of telegraphic correspondence with the Secretary of State for the Colonies on the subject of your resignation of the Governorship of Hongkong, together with copies of the proceedings of a joint meeting of the Executive and Legislative Councils held on the 20th January relating to the same subject.

It is not surprising that you yourself and the Honourable Members of the Councils were, in the circumstances, at a loss to understand the reasons which induced me to ask the Secretary of State so suddenly to relieve me of my duties. I now hasten to inform you that, on the 10th January, I was obliged to send the enclosed telegram to Lord Milner, and that I received the enclosed reply.

I am happy to say that since the attack from which I suffered, my health has gradually improved. The resolution which you were good enough to move at the meeting of the Councils, and the speeches in which the Councils were, in the circumstances, at a loss to understand the reasons which induced me to ask the Secretary of State so suddenly to relieve me of my duties. I now hasten to inform you that, on the 10th January, I was obliged to send the enclosed telegram to Lord Milner, and that I received the enclosed reply.

The resolution which you were good enough to move at the meeting of the Councils, and the speeches in which the Councils were, in the circumstances, at a loss to understand the reasons which induced me to ask the Secretary of State so suddenly to relieve me of my duties. I now hasten to inform you that, on the 10th January, I was obliged to send the enclosed telegram to Lord Milner, and that I received the enclosed reply.

On the 10th January I had a slight cerebro-vascular attack affecting the right leg. In doctor's opinion should not return to post, especially if pressure of work and public grounds alone it appears best to tender my resignation with great regret, from such date as you may decide.—May.

Copy of answer received from Lord Milner on January 21st, 1919.
Have received your telegram 16th January with great regret. In circumstances can only accept your resignation from the end of February with much reluctance and warm thanks for your long and distinguished services. Am informing Hongkong. Sincerely hope that with rest your health will be re-established.

LAWN TENNIS.

A Garrison Tennis League has been formed to provide the troops in the Station with recreation during the summer months. A Committee meeting was held at the Chaplain's room, Scandal Point, last Thursday, the R.G.A., Manchester Regt., R.A.M.C., and R.E. being represented by Master-Gunner May, R.S.M. Keenan, Sergeant McKeehan, and Cornet Townsend respectively. The Rev. Mr. Bundle, C.F., also, who has kindly undertaken the duties of Hon. Secretary, was present. Master-Gunner May was elected to the Chair. It was decided to ask Lt. Col. Coles, R.A.O.C., to become President of the League. The following teams applied to join the league and were accepted:—88th Co. R.G.A. (a) 88th Co. R.G.A. (b), 87th Co. R.G.A., 83rd Co. R.G.A., R.E., Manchester Regiment, R.A.M.C. (a), R.A.M.C. (b), and the R.A.O.C.

The games will commence the first week in May, the first matches being balloted for. The following games will be played during the week ending May 3rd:—83rd Co. v. 87th Co., 88th Co. (a) v. R.A.O.C. (a), R.A.M.C. (a) v. 88th Co. (b), Manchester v. R.A.M.C. (b). The matches for the week ending May 10th will be:—88th Co. (b) v. 83rd Co., R.A.O.C. v. Manchester, R.A.M.C. (b) v. R.A.M.C. (a), R.E. v. 88th Co. (a).

As most of the teams have only one court at their disposal it was decided that each pair should play nine games only with each pair of the opposing team.

The Committee afterwards proceeded to draw up rules and arrange the remaining fixtures, which will cover May, June, July and August. Four matches will be played each week, or 74 matches in all.

LEAGUE MATCHES.

KOWLOON DEFEAT THE MANCHESTERS.

The Kowloon C.C. playing at home on Saturday, against the Manchester Regiment, avenged the defeat they sustained a few weeks previously, thanks mainly to a very meritorious innings by C. J. Stapleton, their crack batsman.

If it had not been for a very sound exhibition of cricket by Lt. Cavanaugh, who scored more than half the total of his side, the Manchesters would have faced very badly indeed. A feature of Cavanaugh's innings was his strong driving to leg. The soldiers tried several new men, at least one of whom, Sgt. Kelly, made a successful debut.

The result of the match was placed beyond doubt when Robinson and Stapleton entered into partnership. The Manchesters missed their best bowler, Allan, and Cavanaugh's slow breaks were to the liking of the batsmen. Stapleton brought off some magnificent drives, especially on the off, while Robinson hit out with great freedom. Goodall played polished shot for 23 runs. Kowloon had scored 164 runs for the loss of wickets when stumps were drawn, and were therefore victors by 55 runs and 4 wickets.

C.R.C. AND CIVIL SERVICE DRAW.

More than usual interest was evinced in this match, at Causeway Bay, on Saturday, because of the strenuous bid made for this year's League honours by the Civil Service, contrasted with the expectation of the Chinese almost robbed their opponents of their chance of winning the League. The match ended in a draw, and therefore the R.G.A. can now afford to let one of their three remaining matches against the Navy, the R.E. and Kowloon—end in a draw. The Civil Service have only to meet the University to win their League programme. If they win they will have 33 points to their credit while if the R.G.A. should win all their remaining fixtures they will have 30 points.

The Chinese, went in first and scored 147 runs. Several of the batsmen adopted free tactics with successful results. They started well, Wee Lee Son and Ng Sze Kwong putting up 53 between them before they were separated. Wong Po Keung hit three fours in succession off Bird. C. F. Lee got himself out in an unusual manner. Facing Seena, he stepped at a ball and hit it towards the leg boundary. When completing the stroke, he knocked his wicket down with his bat, which was clean behind him, and was given out "hit wicket." Law 26 of the Laws of Cricket says a batsman may be out "if, in playing at the ball he has hit down his wicket with the bat." Inasmuch as Lee had completed his stroke and the ball was near the boundary, it is a question whether he was playing at the ball.

The Civil Service did none too well at the start. Wood was caught by Ching with the score at 18. Bradbury batted with great soundness, but was bowled by Syme Thompson both played freely, but it was left to Edmonds (20) to be top contributor. The last-named survived an appeal for "hit wicket." The wicket fell down (no one was sure by what means) when everyone was watching a ball, hit by Edmonds, on its way to the boundary. Play was continued till 6.15 p.m., the "official" time this month, but when stumps were drawn, the Civil Service still wanted 15 runs to win. The Chinese fielding was exceptionally smart. Scores:

EXHIBITION MATCH.

ST. JOSEPH'S COLLEGE, 2; STAFF AND DEPARTMENTS, 0.

This match, played on the Club ground on Saturday, was arranged in connection with the presentation of the cup and medals to the two teams, who are winners and runners-up respectively of the 2nd Division of the Hongkong League. The takings at the gate went towards the expenses incurred in purchasing the medals. A large crowd gathered to witness the game, and though it was not as keenly contested as was expected, it was, nevertheless, very enjoyable. The day was far too warm for the soldiers to do full justice to their reputation, but the College team played with their usual speed and dash. In the first half, the College was the more dangerous of the two. Hyndmann, Silva, and Xavier were particularly prominent for their skillful passing and tricky footwork. It was only the sound defence offered by Wain and Scouler that kept them out, both men tackling and clearing strongly. The goalkeepers were tested in turn, but managed to keep their charges intact. Gleny, the Staff captain, on one occasion brought off a fine save, from Omar, turning what looked like an almost certain goal into a corner. At the interval, neither side had scored.

The second half saw the College pressing with renewed vigour, the forwards being very active in the vicinity of the Staff's goal. Gleny was soon called upon save, a determined rush by Silva and Hyndmann only being checked in time. In the first half, the Staff had afterwards with a hot shot, which, however, was cleverly caught and punted away. At the other end, Skelton missed a good chance of opening the account for Kirby straight into the hands of Sousa, who had little difficulty in effecting a clearance. A mis-kick by Wain enabled Xavier to break through and shoot, the first goal, Gleny having no chance what ever to save. The soldiers tried hard to equalize, and Ellaby almost succeeded, the ball striking the cross-bar and bouncing into play from one of his hefty shots. Xavier was responsible for the College second goal, this time beating Bundle and netting with a fine cross shot. This was the final goal of the match, and though the soldiers in turn bombarded the College goal, they failed to achieve any result. Sousa being in the right place at the right moment, St. Joseph's thus retired winners of a hard-fought game by 2 goals to nil.

Before the presentation of the trophies, Master-Gunner May, Chairman of the Referee's Board, on behalf of the Committee, asked Mrs. H. M. Cameron Macaulay to make the presentation in place of Major W. P. Hammond, who was unable to make an appearance. He also gave an account of the performances of both teams during the past season that elicited loud cheers.

St. Joseph's College, winners of the league, received the cup, and each player a goal medal; while each player of the Staff and Departments received a silver moral.

INTIMATIONS

UNION INSURANCE SOCIETY OF CANTON, LIMITED.

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that an EXTRAORDINARY GENERAL MEETING of the Society will be held at the Registered Office of the Society, Queen's Building, Hongkong, on FRIDAY, the 25th day of April, 1919, at 12 Noon, when the subjoined resolutions which were passed at the Extraordinary General Meeting of the Society held on the 10th day of April, 1919, will be submitted for confirmation as special resolutions:—

1. That the nominal silver capital of the Society as existing when this resolution is confirmed as a special resolution be converted into sterling and that such capital as converted be increased beyond the sterling equivalent of such silver capital when such conversion takes place to the sum of £2,000,000 Sterling divided into 20,000 shares of the nominal value of £100 each.
2. That each of the issued silver shares of the Society of the nominal value of $250
each with the sum of $100 paid up thereon be converted into five shares of the nominal value of £10 each with the sterling equivalent of $20 Hongkong currency as the opening T.T. rate of exchange on the date this resolution is confirmed as a special resolution credited as paid up thereon and accordingly that 50,000 shares of the 200,000 shares of the nominal value of £10 each constituting the capital of the Society so converted and increased be distributed by the Board to the persons who are registered as shareholders of the Society on the date this resolution is confirmed as a special resolution in exchange for the silver shares then held by them.

By the insertion after Article No. 107 of the following Article
"107 (a). The Board may employ Employment of funds of the Society which funds have been established pursuant to the provisions of Article 107 or any of them or any portion thereof (and that whether such funds or such portion as is proposed to be dealt with were set aside for the special purpose to which they are proposed to be applied or for any other purpose or not) in or for all or any of the following purposes, that is to say, in making continuous, in equalizing dividends, in paying special dividends or bonuses, in repairing improving and maintaining any of the property of the Society, or otherwise in the business of the Society, and in or for such other purposes as the Board shall in its discretion think conducive to the interests of the Society and in regard to any such employment as aforesaid the Board shall not be bound to keep the reserve funds separate from the other assets."

By the insertion of the following Articles after Article No. 108.

- "108a (1). Any general meeting at which a dividend or bonus is declared or sanctioned may make a call on the members of such amount as the meeting fixes but so that the call on each member shall not exceed the dividend or bonus payable to him and so that notwithstanding the provisions of Articles 19, 20 and 21 the call may be payable at the same time as the dividend or bonus and the dividend or bonus may, if so arranged between the Society and the members, be set off against the call. The making of a call under this Article shall be deemed ordinary business of an ordinary general meeting which shall be a dividend.
- (2). After any resolution has been passed under the provisions of paragraph (1) of this Article the Board may arrange on behalf of the Society for the dividend or bonus to be set off against the call by authorizing any person on behalf of the members from whom such call is due to enter into an Agreement with the Society providing for such dividend or bonus to be set off against such call and any Agreement made under such authority shall be effective.
- (3). It shall be no objection to any resolution made under paragraph (1) of this article or to any call or arrangement that such resolution was passed or such call or arrangement was made at the meeting at which the resolution introducing this Article and Articles 107 (a) was confirmed as a special resolution provided that due notice of the intention to propose such first mentioned resolution and to declare such dividend or bonus and to make such call shall have been given prior to the Confirmatory meeting aforesaid.

101 (b). Dividends may be paid in Hongkong Currency at the rate of exchange for each rate of exchange as the General Meeting sanction, provided involving the same or, in the case of interim dividends, as the Board may determine."

And the subjoined resolutions will be proposed as Extraordinary resolutions:

1. That the difference between the sterling equivalent as to-day's opening T.T. rate of exchange of $20 Hongkong currency and the sum of £4 be called up upon each of the 80,000 shares of the Society of the nominal value of £10 each into which the silver shares of the Society have been converted.
2. That a bonus dividend equal in amount to such difference as is referred to in Resolution No. 1 be and the same is hereby declared out of the Reserve Funds of the Society, such bonus dividend being payable to the persons who are registered as the shareholders of the Society on the date this resolution is passed and that such dividend be set off against the amount due from him for call under Resolution No. 1 and be retained by the Society accordingly and that the Board be authorized to make the necessary entries in the books of the Society.

3. That the 10,000 shares of the capital of the Society be issued additionally to the 80,000 shares referred to in Resolution
No. 1 and that the sum of £4 be called up thereon and that such additional shares be offered in the first instance at a premium of £1 per share to the persons who are registered as the shareholders of the Society on the date this resolution is passed in the proportion of one additional share for each silver share previously held and upon the footing that the sum of £4 called up plus the £1 (making together £5 per share) shall be paid to the Society on acceptance of the offer, and that such offer be made by notice specifying the number of shares to which such persons are entitled and limiting the time within which the offer if not accepted by payment will be deemed to be declined to the 23rd May 1919, and that the Board be empowered to dispose of the shares not taken up in response to such offer as they consider expedient in the interests of the Society.

4. That the 1600 additional shares referred to in Resolution No. 3 participate in all dividends declared after the next Annual General Meeting of the Society pro rata with the 80,000 shares referred to in Resolution No. 1.

THE POLICE RESERVE.

Now that the Great War is at an end
there is a very natural desire in all directions for a return to normal conditions.
Many of the regulations and restrictions of the past four years and a half have proved extremely irksome, and have only been submitted to from patriotic motives.
This fact has not always been as fully appreciated by those "dressed in a little brief authority" as it should have been,
and, as a consequence, anything smacking of militarism is now anathema to the vast majority of people. We do not think, however, that the members of the Hongkong Police Reserve have had any just cause for complaint. The organization has been run on the most democratic lines. The officers have been selected for their zeal and efficiency, regardless of their social status, and severe disciplinary measures were only introduced after the Force had been in existence for some considerable time and experience had proved the necessity for them.

When it was found that certain men systematically neglected their duties and ignored the repeated inquiries addressed to them on the subject by their Inspectors

—who, be it remembered, were also business men giving their services gratuitously
—it was clearly impossible, in the interest of the Corps and in justice to those who "played the game"
to allow such conduct to pass unnoticed. Punishments, however, have never been inflicted until after full investigation, and applications for exemption from duty have always been referred to an independent Board, which, to our knowledge, has sometimes given decisions adverse to the views of the commandant.

It is probable, we think, that a good deal of the discontent expressed has been due to the fact that nobody, upon joining, supposed that his services would be required for so long a period as they have been, but for that, of course, we must blame the Central European Powers. It is true that in 1916, when the Force comprised half its present number, only two months a month were detailed to every man, but the correspondent who points
this out forgets that conditions arose later which demanded heavier calls upon the Corps. When the appeal for additional men at the Front were received it was a source of pride to the Police Reserve that it was able to release more of the Regulars for service with the Colours and thereby justify its description by General KELLY as "a valuable addition to the defensive forces of the Colony." Though hostilities are now at an end, these men have not yet returned to Hongkong. It may be that some of them are spending a brief vacation at Home, but who would deprive them of that, after the experiences they have been through, in order to escape from duties which do not occupy more than nine or ten hours a month? It must not be forgotten that the members of the Hongkong Defence Corps, who, it is complained, "are now enjoying an easy time," were mobilised on the outbreak of war and were performing arduous duties for months before the Police Reserve was formed and for nearly a year before its members were called upon to do any serious work. We have no sympathy with those who leave their places of business each day at five o'clock and yet feel aggrieved because they are asked to give up three or four nights a month for the purpose of assisting in the preservation of law and order while some of the ordinary custodians of the peace are facing the perils and hardships of the battlefield for their sakes.

On the other hand, of course, if the Government can make satisfactory arrangements to dispense with the services of the Police Reserve it is only reasonable to expect them to do so as early as possible, and we agree with "Disgusted" that no preference should be shown to any one section of the Corps unless it be those who have served longest. There is certainly no justification for treating the Search Supervising Squad with less consideration than any other section, especially when it is remembered that they are not engaged on work which has any connection with the war. The task of supervising the searches on the wharves was undertaken voluntarily some time back as the result of complaints made by the Chinese members of the Legislative Council that passengers were "squeezed," and it has fallen upon the British and Chinese because others objected to the unsavoury surroundings.

As it is only carried out between the hours of 6 and 10 p.m. it is obvious that whatever good effect it may have can be only partial, as many ships arrive and depart during the daytime. In any case it is open to grave doubt whether, when the Police Reserve is disbanded, the Government will be disposed to incur the expense of employing sufficient men to do the work as thoroughly as it is considered necessary to do it to-day.

A presentation to Major D. Macdonald, of the Hongkong Defence Corps, will be made at Headquarters at 5.30 p.m. tomorrow.

As will be seen from an advertisement appearing in to-day's issue, "Aladdin and his Wonder-lamp" will be produced at the Naval Canton Theatre under distinguished patronage on Friday. The booking at Montre's is good and a full house is confidently expected for this quaint and original performance. The first dress-rehearsal is on Tuesday, and,
to judge from reports, Aladdin will give more pleasant surprises than many of the entertainments seen lately. The matinée for Saturday, 26th inst., is well booked.
It is hoped that there will be many more performances of this clever and lively pantomime, which is for the benefit of the

GERMANY TO MAKE FULL REPARATION.

COMPLETE ALLIED AGREEMENT ON PEACE TERMS.

GERMAN EMISSARIES SUMMONED FOR FRIDAY NEXT.

MR. LLOYD GEORGE'S IMPORTANT SPEECH.

BOLSHEVISTS' OFFER TO GERMANY.

FRENCH AGREEMENT WITH BRITAIN AND AMERICA.

[THROUGH REUTER'S AGENCY.]

THE PEACE CONFERENCE.

London, April 16th.
Mr. Lloyd George's statement in the House of Commons, today, is being awaited with intense interest. Many Members postponed their departure for the Easter vacation in order to hear the first complete pronouncement of a leading member of the Peace Conference.

There has been a remarkable demand for tickets in the galleries.

Mr. Lloyd George was granted an audience by the King yesterday evening.

It is announced that the Premier speaks immediately the House opens, and not, as at first intended, after the other speakers. The change of plan is due to the Premier's belief, after making enquiries, that there is no desire to assail the action of the British Delegates at the Peace Conference.

THE HOUSE OF COMMONS.

London, April 16th.
The House of Commons was crowded in anticipation of the Premier's speech. The Prince of Wales, paying his first visit to the House, took a seat over the clock, having as his neighbour in the Diplomatic Gallery the American Ambassador.

The Premier was loudly cheered when he entered shortly after half past twelve.

A TRIBUTE TO PRESIDENT WILSON.

London, April 16th.
In the House of Commons, continuing his important speech on the peace terms, (another reference to which will be made elsewhere), Mr. Lloyd George said that the representatives of the Great Powers had reached a complete understanding on the great fundamental questions affecting peace with Germany. They had formulated those demands, and he hoped that, by the end of next week, they would be presented.

Mr. Lloyd George strongly denounced the attempts to sow dissension and distrust between the Allies. He said that no one could have treated more sympathetically the peculiar problems and special susceptibilities of Europe, with long and bitter memories of national conflict, than President Wilson. (Cheers.)

HEROIC FRANCE.

They had never forgotten the poignant fact that most of the war sufferings and sacrifices had been borne by heroic France. They had not forgotten that she was entitled to feel a sense of security against a repetition of attack.

THE IMPORTANCE OF UNANIMITY.

Continuing, Mr. Lloyd George said:—"Upon all questions that have come before us we have come to unanimous conclusions. (Cheers.) What happened at the Congress of Vienna showed the importance of unanimity."

PREMATURE PUBLICATION OF PEACE TERMS.

The Peace Conference had unanimously and unhesitatingly concluded that it would be a first-class blunder to publish the Peace Terms before they had been discussed with the enemy. No Peace Conference had ever given its proceedings so much publicity, but he would rather have a good peace than a good Press. (Cheers.)

The Conference would take every action necessary to prevent premature publication, which would only encourage the enemy to resist.

GOVERNMENT PLEDGES KEPT.

The Premier declared that every pledge the Government had given had been incorporated in the Allied demands. The Government had never answered an iota from these demands. They stood by them because they thought them just. The Premier continued:—"We want a stern peace because the occasion demands it, but it must be designed not to gratify vengeance, but to vindicate justice. Every clause and term must be justified on that ground. Above all, we want to protect the future against a repetition of the horrors of this war."

PARLIAMENT AND THE TREATY.

"I am going back to Paris if the House wants me to go. (Loud cheers.) Whoever goes back will meet the emissaries of the enemy and must possess the full confidence of Parliament. Parliament may repudiate the Treaty when it is signed, but it will be very difficult. So before anyone goes to Paris, Parliament must feel, at any rate, that whoever is there will carry out the pledges to the utmost of his power and conviction."

THE MENACE OF ARMAMENTS.

After denouncing the newspaper attempts to sow dissension between the Allies, and emphasising the necessity of freeing commerce and industry as soon as possible and reducing the enormous war expenditure, the Premier said that one of the results of peace would be the abolition of the great continental menace of armaments.

The forces of Germany would be reduced to an Army only just adequate to police her cities and protect her commerce. We and Europe must profit thereby.

THE DANGER IN THE FUTURE.

The danger, at present, was not that there might be a recrudescence of militarism in Germany, because Germany could only with difficulty raise 80,000 armed men to preserve order. The danger was that the world, going into peace, would see the ghost of hunger stalking through the land.

THE DUTY OF ALL STATESMEN.

He concluded by emphasising that it was the duty of all statesmen, Parliament, and guides of public opinion not to soil the triumph of Right by indulging in angry passions, but to concentrate the sacrifices of millions to the redemption of mankind from the scourges and the agony of war. (Cheers.)

PREMIER ATTACKS THE "TIMES."

In the course of his speech, Mr. Lloyd George sensationally attacked "the attempts of certain newspaper owners, suffering from diseased vanity, to sow dissension between the Allies." The Times, he said, was the three-penny edition of the Daily Mail. On the Continent the idea prevailed that it was the semi-official organ of the Government. That showed how long old tradition took to die.

GERMANY MUST PAY!

A member of Mr. Lloyd George's entourage, interviewed by the Echo de Paris, is reported as having said that Mr. Lloyd George is insisting that, besides the provisional bond amounting from 125 to 150 milliards of francs which she will be called on to sign, Germany must agree to meet the entire cost of reparation damages, and pensions.

Financial experts differ on the amount Germany could pay within 35 years, but Mr. Lloyd George favours a higher payment spread over 50 years.

GERMANY'S ASSETS.

Paris, April 16th.
Le Journal says that the sub-Committee on the financial capacity of Germany estimates Germany's assets in gold, silver, and securities, available within the next two years, at £1,000,000,000 of which £100,000,000 will be cash.

From January 1st, 1920, when the improvement of German industry and credit is expected, the annual payments by Germany will increase progressively. The payments will be determined by an Inter-Allied Commission.

It has been resolved to compel Germany to reduce her imports to a minimum and to fix a very high figure for exportation of certain commodities from Germany. For example, the export of coal has been fixed at 90,000,000 tons yearly, valued at £20,000,000 annually.

THE GERMAN EMISSARIES.

Paris, April 16th.
A formal invitation has been sent to the German Government to send representatives to Versailles on April 26th. It is expected that the German Peace Mission will number 200 persons.

The Germans will be allowed to send an emissary to Berlin with the text of the terms, allowing eight days for the journey to Berlin and the return, and eight days grace before the signature of the Treaty is attached.

It is hoped that the Treaty will be signed before May 16th.

A PATEFUL ANNIVERSARY.

Paris, April 16th.

A Havas message says:—"The idea is gaining that the peace preliminaries will be signed on May 10th, the anniversary of the Peace of Frankfurt."

FRANCE GETS MANDATE FOR SYRIA.

Paris, April 16th.

A Havas message says:—"France obtains a mandate from the League of Nations for Syria, including Damascus, Aleppo and Alexandretta. It is believed that the United States is willing to accept a mandate for Armenia. ARRIVAL OF MORE AMERICAN DELEGATES."

Paris, April 16th.

General Pershing, Mr. Newton D. Baker, the American War Secretary, and Mr. Wallace, the new American Ambassador to France, have arrived here.

PENSIONS TO EX-SOLDIERS.

DEBATE IN THE HOUSE OF COMMONS.

London, April 16th.

In the House of Commons, Mr. Tyson Wilson moved that the present pensions and gratuities awarded to ex-soldiers or dependents were inadequate, and ought to be increased.

London, April 16th.

In the House of Commons, in the course of the debate on Mr. Wilson's motion, two women in the gallery started shouting: "You murderers are leading work." The women were ejected, struggling and protesting.

A third woman shouted: "Long live the Soviets," but withdrew quietly when requested to do so.

Sir L. Worthington Evans, replying to the debate, mentioned that during the last three months the pensions' bill had increased to £3,000,000.

The motion was withdrawn.

London, April 16th.

The women interrupters in the House of Commons were subsequently identified as Miss Sylvia Pankhurst, Mrs. Cole and Miss Stephenson. They were released.

MR. H. H. ASQUITH.

INTERESTING SPEECH IN LONDON.

London, April 16th.

Mr. H. H. Asquith, addressing a meeting of 600 Independent Liberals in London, said that the people were realising the artificiality of the last General Election.

He denounced the Government's failure to redeem the anti-Conscription and the Irish Home Rule pledges, and expressed grave concern at the threatened departure from the policy of free trade.

He said that Imperial Preference would be embodied in the Budget, but he still did not believe that the policy of tariffs would increase our income, benefit trade, or cement the Empire. We claimed equal freedom with the Dominions to follow our own fiscal system.

He denounced the prevailing extravagance, largely due to the "reign of super-men," which, unless checked, would destroy the possibility of social reform.

RIOTING IN INDIA.

SYMPATHY WITH EGYPTIAN RISING.

London, April 16th.

The Press Bureau states:—"Although the observance of 'Humiliation Day' in India, on April 6th, did not lead to serious disturbances, Mr. M. K. Gandhi and Mrs. Sarojini Naidu addressed a meeting of Mohammedans in Bombay, using inflammatory language regarding the events in Egypt. The crowd then developed rowdiness."

A meeting of unprecedented magnitude, on the French Bridge, was addressed by Mr. Gandhi to refrain from violence.

The Viceroy reported, on April 13th, that Mr. Gandhi was forbidden to go to Delhi or the Punjab, where the position was serious, he having threatened to break certain laws. Mr. Gandhi disobeyed and was sent back to Bombay.

RIOTS AT AMRITSAR.

London, April 16th.

Riots broke out at Amritsar, where three banks were burned, following the removal of Kichlu and Satya Pal, two violent agitators.

NATIONALIST RISING IN EGYPT.

CONDITIONS MORE SATISFACTORY.

London, April 16th.

In the House of Commons, Mr. Cecil Harcourt, in a statement regarding Egypt, said that, from a general point of view of public security, the conditions were more satisfactory.

No incidents of any particular importance had been reported from the provinces, although attempts had been made in some districts in the Delta to interfere with railway and telephonic communications.

The New Ministry was endeavouring to settle the strike. Moderate elements had apparently strongly opposed the continuance of the strike, but the agitators were working against them.

General Allenby's policy, under the powers vested in him, was to secure the co-operation of all parties in restoring law and order, and normal conditions of life throughout the country.

THREATENANCE OF BOLSHEVISM.

GREAT BRITAIN'S POLICY.

London, April 16th.

Mr. Lloyd George, in the course of his speech in the House of Commons (another reference to which appears on another page) said that had we abandoned the General Denikin and Admiral Kolchak to the Bolsheviks it would have been an act thoroughly unworthy of any great land. (Cheers.) They had only asked to be supplied with arms.

He had not regarded that as the least departure from Great Britain's fundamental policy. Our policy was to prevent the forcible eruption of Bolshevism in Allied lands. Therefore, we were organising all the forces in Allied countries bordering territories from the Baltic to the Black Sea.

There were, unmistakable signs that Russia was emerging and, when she was against sane and normal, we would make peace with Russia.

NO ADVANCES FROM THE BOLSHEVISTS.

Replying to an interruption by Mr. J. R. Clynes, the Premier said that the Government had had no approaches at all from the Russian Bolshevik Government. (Cheers.) He had heard reports that others had had proposals, which, even if assumed to be authentic, had never been submitted to the Peace Conference by any member of the Conference. Therefore, the Conference had not considered them.

FAR-REACHING CONSPIRACY IN RUMANIA.

Berlin, April 16th.

The Rumanian Press Bureau announces that the Rumanian authorities have discovered a far-reaching Bolshevik conspiracy with headquarters at Clausen-burg. Several relatives of M. Bela Kun are said to be implicated.

ADVANCE ON THE DUTCH FRONTIER.

Amsterdam, April 16th.

It is reported from Gelderland that the Spartacists of Westphalia are advancing on the Dutch frontier. The Prussian Government troops are fruitlessly endeavouring to prevent them.

WEST OF SIBERIA FREE.

Helsingfors, April 16th.

The entire West of Siberia is reported free of Bolshevism. The Kolchak Government is being stabilised.

RUSSIA'S OFFER TO GERMANY.

Berlin, April 16th.

The Deutsche Tageszeitung states that after the outbreak of Bolshevism in Hungary, M. Lenin forwarded a Note to Herr Scheidemann containing an offer from Bolshevism in Russia and Hungary to form an Alliance with Germany against the Entente, and immediately to place 500,000 men at Germany's disposal.

The Note offered to guarantee Germany's 1914 frontiers except in Alsace-Lorraine and Poland.

Germany was to assist Russia against the Entente and form a purely Socialist Cabinet.

RUMANIANS RETREATING INTO BESSARABIA.

London, April 16th.

A Bolshevik message from the Ukraine declares that after fierce fighting the Rumanians have begun a general retreat into Bessarabia.

WAR PRISONERS.

REMNANTS OF THE CASEMENT BRIGADE.

London, April 16th.

In the House of Commons, at question-time, Mr. Winston Churchill stated that he had been informed that there were only two British war prisoners sick and untraceable remaining in Germany. He also stated that 33 men of the Casement Brigade, besides two who figured in the Casement trial, had been repatriated. The Government was considering their case.

CRISIS IN CENTRAL EUROPE.

ARCHDUKE JOSEPH MURDERED?

Berlin, April 16th.

It is reported that the Communist rulers at Budapest caused the Archduke Joseph, the ex-Premier, Count Wekerle, and the ex-Minister of Commerce, Count Sztrenyi, to be murdered in prison.

SPAIN.

THE CABINET'S RESIGNATION.

Madrid, April 16th.

The Cabinet has resigned.

THE NEW MINISTRY.

Madrid, April 16th.

A new Ministry has been formed under the Premiership of Signor Mañana. The Foreign Minister, Signor Gonzalez Hontoria, is the nominee of Count Romanones.

GERMANY.

THE GOVERNMENT'S TASK.

Copenhagen, April 16th.

A telegram from Weimar, dated April 16th, states that President Ebert, in an Easter message to the National Assembly, welcomed, as the declaration of the German people's inflexible will, the Assembly's pronouncement of April 14th, refusing to accept a peace which would sacrifice the present and the future of the German people. He said that the Government's task of securing peace, bread, and work was difficult so long as their opponents were dominated with hatred and revenge and continued the blockade, driving the German people to despair. It was, however, impossible to secure peace and create a new State, if the people persisted in the struggle threatening the destruction of the State. It was in the vital interest of Germany resolutely to oppose Bolshevik tendencies.

LATEST NEWS FROM MUNICH.

Berlin, April 16th.

The latest news from Munich is that Munich is entirely in the power of the Spartacists, but the Government troops have been reinforced and now are bombarding the Spartacists' stronghold (the railway station).

Other Bavarian reinforcements are proceeding to Munich.

The Spartacists have arrested most of the members of the Central Council.

Street fighting is increasing. There have been many civilian victims.

GOVERNMENT TROOPS DEFEATED AT MUNICH.

Berlin, April 16th.

The battle at Munich between the Government troops and the Spartacists, for the possession of the railway station, ended in the complete defeat of the former.

Railway communication between Berlin and Munich is suspended.

FRANCE'S EVER-PRESENT DANGER.

ARMED FORCES ON THE RHINE.

Paris, April 16th.

A Havas message says:—"French opinion asks how the new Eastern frontier of France is to be guaranteed. Great Britain and the United States being averse to leaving their Armies, after peace, to occupy German territory."

The French and Belgians are willing to keep armed forces on the Rhine on the condition that Great Britain and the United States recognise, by material guarantees, the vital importance of the security of France to the general peace of the world.

AN AGREEMENT WITH BRITAIN AND AMERICA.

Paris, April 16th.

It is expected that the Council of Four will reach an agreement whereby Great Britain and America will immediately come to the assistance of France should the Germans ever advance west of a line 50 kilometres east of the Rhine.

AERIAL DEVELOPMENT.

THE "DAILY MAIL'S" £10,000 PRIZE.

Paris, April 16th.

A Havas message says:—"The forthcoming contest, for the Daily Mail prize of £10,000 for an Atlantic flight, is being closely watched by the French Press, and there is expressed that France will not be merely a spectator, having plenty of first-rate airmen who are able to compete for aerial supremacy."

THE SILVER MARKET.

London, April 16th.

Silver is quoted at 45½d. per ounce. The market is steady.

Later.

Silver is quoted at 48 13-16d. per ounce. The market is steady.

DEMobilisation.

SHIPPING DIFFICULTIES.

London, April 16th.

In the House of Commons, Mr. Clough drew attention to the very large number of men who were urgently needed in all parts of the world to fill up posts which they gave up temporarily in order to come home to fight, and who were unable to return owing to the failure of the authorities to provide the promised shipping.

Mr. Steel Maitland replied that the Government was well aware of the importance and the urgency of the matter. The Overseas Trade Department, in co-operation with the Ministry of Shipping and the War Office, were making every effort to secure passages for these men as speedily as possible.

WARSHIPS TO BE USED.

London, April 16th.

In the House of Commons, replying to Mr. Archibald Hurd, Mr. Wilson stated that the Admiralty had agreed to place a certain number of warships at the disposal of the authorities for repatriating troops. The Admiralty and the Ministry of Shipping were discussing the difficult question of manning the warships.

FAR EASTERN CABLE NEWS.

[FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.]

THE SZECHUAN HANKOW RAILWAY AGREEMENT.

Peking, April 17th.

The Cabinet has agreed to the request of the American, British and French Legations that German interests be excluded from the Four-Power Group formed in 1911 for the construction of the Szechuan Hankow Railway, the German interests to be divided among the remaining Powers. The agreement provided for a gold loan of Six million pounds.

THE CURRENCY LOAN OF 1911.

The application for a further extension of the Currency Loan of 1911, wherein American, British, French and German Banking groups participated, has not yet been answered. The period expired in October last and an extension was granted until April 15th.

GERMANS IN HONGKONG.

London, April 16th.

In the House of Commons, Mr. G. H. P. Croft drew attention to the report that the German missionaries in Hongkong were actively undermining British interests, and urged the repatriation of all Germans in Hongkong.

Col. Amery replied that the only German missionaries in Hongkong were eight women, who had been in charge of charitable institutions, under supervision. They were now being sent back to Germany.

All the other Germans had long since been removed from the Colony, except three, of whom two were only technically German subjects and the third a man of British sympathies, whose exemption was specially requested by the military authorities.

ALIENS RESTRICTION BILL.

GOVERNMENT POWERS BEING MAINTAINED FOR A YEAR.

London, April 16th.

In the House of Commons, the Aliens Restriction Bill, maintaining, for one year after the war, the present powers of the authorities, passed its second reading.

BRITISH LABOUR.

MINERS ACCEPT GOVERNMENT TERMS.

London, April 16th.

The Miners' Conference has unanimously accepted the Government terms.

THE MINERS' BALLOT.

London, April 16th.

The miners' ballot resulted in 933,984 voting for the acceptance of Mr. Justice Sankey's report and 79,992 voting against the acceptance.

AERIAL DEVELOPMENT.

PREPARING FOR ANOTHER TRANS-ATLANTIC FLIGHT.

St. John's (Newfoundland), April 16th.

DODGE BROTHERS MOTOR CAR

Its Goodness is alone responsible for the unusual demand that has existed right from the beginning.

Nothing has ever disturbed the demand for this Car. No outside conditions, no conditions inside the industry seem to slow it up a particle. The people want the Car more intensely at this moment than ever they wanted it before.

The Car has reached the stage when its sales are almost automatically increased. By this we mean that one sale is almost certain to result in one or two other sales.

There is a very pronounced and definite public opinion now in this country concerning the Dodge Bros. Car.

People seem to know that Dodge Brothers' idea, from the very first, was that if they built the Car right, nothing else mattered. It is the quality revealed in its performance which makes the price impressive. People are attracted by something more than price; it is the internal and external excellence which characterises the Car.

The high price it demands when sold second-hand increases the respect in which the Car is held.

It would be hard to find a truer test of enduring worth. People are not eager for used Cars unless they know that such Cars have before them a long life of satisfactory service.

And so the Dodge Brothers Car is bought, not upon price, but upon the quality and value that it embodies.

D. M. GOODALL.

MANAGER,

TELEPHONE 407.

DR. FORSYTH'S DEPARTURE. PRESENTATION BY KOWLOON C.C.

Dr. C. Forsyth, who is leaving the Colony shortly, was made the recipient, on Friday night, of a gold and platinum pearl tie pin from the members of the Kowloon Cricket Club as a token of their appreciation of his services as President during the past nine years. The Club house was filled to overflowing and a convivial time was spent by all.

Mr. R. E. Lindell, vice-president, in making the presentation, said: We have met here tonight to bid farewell, for a time at any rate, and we all earnestly hope that the time will be short—to our genial President, Dr. Forsyth. As you all know, and regret, the Doctor's health has unexpectedly broken down, and he has been ordered away to California. I am sure we all feel we could not let him go without showing him some small mark of our esteem and regard. Dr. Forsyth has always taken the keenest interest in all the activities of the Club. He has worthily represented it at every game except, I believe, bowls. But more than that, gentlemen, he has for some nine years now been our President, and has helped to guide our destinies, with unerring tact and unfailing success. When he took control we were in debt; now our assets exceed our liabilities by $6,000. (Applause.) I need say no more, Dr. Forsyth, on behalf of the members, I ask you to accept this tie pin as a token of our regard and affection, and we wish you a good voyage, a good holiday, a speedy recovery and a speedy return. Our best wishes to you and Mrs. Forsyth. (Applause.)

Dr. Forsyth, in acknowledgment, said he was fighting his little trouble better than he expected. He had always taken a keen interest in the Club. If they could remove the track around the cricket ground all future interport matches would be played there. Mr. Dick Hancock had told him it was the only suitable ground for such matches, and Mr. T. E. Pearce had made a similar comment. Mr. Lindell had just spoken about his presidency of the Club and the success which attended his efforts. All the credit was due to the members of the committee; he had been a mere figurehead. As long as they pulled together without any jealousy among the different sections the Club would go on thriving. He would like to mention some of those who had worked so hard for the Club in the past. They were Messrs. P. R. Wolf, R. E. Lindell, L. J. Blackburn, J. P. Robinson, D. J. McKenzie, D. Neilson, G. Duncan, W. Stewart, A. O. Brawn, J. H. Head, C. W. Jeffries, D. Harvey, S. E. Green, Shroff, and J. Hyde. Those were the men, continued Dr. Forsyth, who had helped the Club to attain its present position. The lovely present they had given him was a thing he had wanted for years. He hoped to be back before the end of the next cricket season. In concluding, he wished the Club every success. He was sure it would become the finest cricket club in the Colony, if not in the Far East. (Applause.)

The gathering then drank to the health of Dr. Forsyth, Mrs. Forsyth and family at the suggestion of Mr. P. R. Wolf, who paid a glowing tribute to the work done for the Club by Dr. Forsyth. The toast was drunk with musical honours.

CANTON NEWS.

CANTON, April 20th.
FRAGS IN THE PROVINCIAL ASSEMBLY.
The election of the two vice-speakers of the Provincial Assembly, which has been postponed several times, was held on the 17th inst. The Assembly was guarded by a large armed force. About 150 of the new members were present. Soon after the opening of the meeting, a terrible row ensued when the Civil Governor's representatives proposed to take sole charge of the election. Disorders began, and chairs and inkpots were thrown. The election failed and the meeting dispersed in confusion.

THE RUN-AWAY LAUNCHES.
In view of the fact that the launches which ran away are still interned in Hongkong, the Authorities have sent a special delegate to appeal to the Governor of the Colony for their release, and have requested the British Consul in Shanghai to use his good offices in the matter.

THE SHANGHAI CONFERENCE.
The Shanghai Conference has proposed that both the old and new Parliaments at Peking be abolished after the Constitution has been settled.

PEKING CABLE NEWS.
The Peking Government has received a report of a mutiny in the city of Anhui, Anhui province. The mutineers bombarded the adjacent villages with shells. Looting and massacres took place throughout the city.
A big fire in Peking was caused by incandescence on the part of some lawless troops.
The Peking Government is proposing to establish a bureau to take charge of demobilisation.

EARLIER CABLES

[THROUGH REUTER'S AGENCY.]

GERMANY.

BAVARIAN WAR MINISTER
MURDERED.

COPENHAGEN, April 13th.

A telegram from Dresden states that the War Minister, Herr Neuring, was killed yesterday by discontented soldiers.
TROOPS SENT TO RESTORE ORDER.

COPENHAGEN, April 13th.

A telegram from Berlin says that, learning of the murder of Herr Neuring, Herr Noske immediately arranged to send sufficient troops to Dresden to restore order quickly.

DETAILS OF THE INCIDENT.

COPENHAGEN, April 13th.

A telegram from Dresden, dated April 13th, states:—

Five hundred soldiers marched in procession this morning to the War Ministry to protect against the War Minister's order that the wounded, in future, were to receive only peace-time pay.

Herr Neuring refused to receive the deputation, whereupon the crowd, incited by the Communists, overpowered the sentries.

A GRUESOME STORY.

The Government troops were gunned, but refused to fight. They surrendered their arms, and the crowd then machine-gunned the War Ministry, forced an entrance, and seized Herr Neuring, who took refuge in the upper storey. They dragged him into the street, severely maltreated him, threw him into the Elbe from the bridge, and fired at him when he tried to swim to the bank, until he disappeared beneath the water.

SOVIET GOVERNMENT OVER-THROWN.

A telegram from Weimar, dated April 13th, says that the Soviet Government was overthrown by the Munich garrison. The Bavarian Government has sent a deputy, Herr Vogel, to Munich, charged with supreme authority. All the Soviet decrees have been annulled.

STATE OF SIEGE PROCLAIMED.

COPENHAGEN, April 14th.

A telegram from Dresden says that a state of siege has been proclaimed. The entire Ministry of Saxony has issued an announcement stigmatising the murder of Herr Neuring as bestial and necessitating sharp measures on behalf of the Government.

A later telegram states that the Ministry has promised a deputation of soldiers that all their demands will be granted.

MUNICH POPULATION IN DIRE STRAITS.

LONDON, April 13th.

The situation at Munich is still obscure, but, according to a message from Berlin, dated April 13th, the new Communist Cabinet of Herren Lewien and Muehsam is already quarrelling. Herr Muehsam and his partisans came to blows with Herr Lewien and his supporters.

Meanwhile, the position of the population at Munich is unbearable. They are without milk, meat and coal. There is no further news of the White Guards, who were reported on April 11th to be about to occupy Munich.

MILITARY DICTATORSHIP AT MUNICH.

COPENHAGEN, April 14th.

A telegram from Nuremberg says that the garrison at Munich has established a Military Dictatorship, and that the heads of the Soviet Government have been arrested.

An assault on the citadel of Dresden is momentarily expected. Fighting is proceeding in the streets. Troops have been garrisoned in the famous Court Church, defending a vital bridgehead.

FIGHTING CONTINUES AT MUNICH.

BERLIN, April 14th.

Latest reports state that the Communists at Munich have not been mastered. Heavy fighting is raging in the streets between the Government troops and the Red Guards. The latter, with trench-mortars, have recaptured the railway station, post offices, and several other public buildings.

FIGHTING IN DUSSELDORF.

BERLIN, April 12th.

There has been serious fighting at Dusseldorf, the strikers incessantly machine-gunning the railway station. The Government troops are using artillery and mine-throwers against the Spartacists, who have constructed trenches and barricades in the streets, and are stubbornly resisting.

Extremely heavy fighting is expected. Martial law has again been declared in the town.

DUSSELDORF SPARTACISTS DEFEATED.

COPENHAGEN, April 13th.

A telegram from Dusseldorf states that after an extremely violent bombardment, the Government troops ejected the Spartacists from Aderbilk market place. The majority of the Spartacists fled in the direction of Elber.

THE HOUSE OF COMMONS.

HULL BY-ELECTION RESULT CAUSES SENSATION.

LONDON, April 12th.
The result of the Hull bye-election has created a sensation in the House of Commons and the country. The Liberals are delighted with joy. A turnover of 11,288 votes in which has been always a Conservative stronghold is generally admitted as unprecedented in electioneering annals, especially following the most decisive General Election on record.

COMMANDER KENWORTHY'S RECORD.

Commander Kenworthy is an Asquithian Liberal and the son of Lord Strathmore. He was a strong candidate. His war record in fighting submarines, and his distinction of being the champion boxer of the Navy, appealed to the fishermen electorate while his "No Conscription" cry and the demand for an immediate removal of the restrictions on commerce chiefly weighed with the port, which is suffering from the difficulties of restoration to normal trade, especially with Scandinavia and the Baltic.

A POLITICAL PORTENT.

The Times describes the result as a political portent, and says that it is now absolutely clear that the country has determined to redress the balance of the General Election. It declares that very few Unionist seats can be accounted safe to-day.

MR. CHURCHILL'S VIEWS.

LONDON, April 12th.

Mr. Winston Churchill, speaking at a luncheon in London, when he received the result, said that Hull was not so appreciative of the Government's labours as could be wished, but a reaction was natural and even healthy, yet the Government would not be deflected from its aim of reviving the prosperity of the country.

THE NEW CANDIDATE'S PLANK.

LONDON, April 12th.

Commander Kenworthy, speaking at the Asquith banquet, said the electors were indignant at the delays in Paris, the Government's treatment of Ireland, and the inhuman blockade of Germany. They were, also, opposed to conscription.

THE NATIONALIST RISING IN EGYPT.

RECRUDESCENCE OF RIOTING.

CAIRO, April 11th.
There was serious rioting during the past three days at Cairo, the mob chiefly attacking Armenians. Thirty eight were killed and a hundred injured during the last 48 hours. All Armenians are now under military protection.

Collisions between the troops and the mob resulted in numerous casualties amongst the rioters. Twenty-two civilians were killed and 47 removed to hospital. A large proportion of these was due to outrages. Five British soldiers, including two unarmed Indians, were murdered.

The mob attacked the troops at Alexandria. The latter fired, killing 17, and wounding many. Order was finally restored.

AN EXPRESSION OF REGRET.

CAIRO, April 12th.

A communique, issued at noon yesterday, says that all is quiet throughout Egypt.

A deputation of the notables of Alexandria called on the General Officer Commanding, and expressed regret for the incidents of Thursday, and appreciation of the patience and forbearance of the troops.

NUMEROUS ARRESTS AT ASSIUT.

Four hundred have been arrested at Assiut in connection with the recent riots and for plundering.

A BOLSHEVIST PLOT.

EIGHT PERSONS ARRESTED.

STOCKHOLM, April 13th.

A telegram from Helsingfors says that eight persons have been arrested at Viborg and one at Helsingfors in connection with a plot to blow up the officers' club and an ammunition depot at Viborg and an ammunition depot. The outrages were planned for the end of April in co-ordination with a Bolshevik attack on Finland, while a revolt was planned to break out in Sweden and Norway on the same day.

INDIAN AND CEYLON TEAS.

A CASE AGAINST PREFERENCE.

LONDON, April 17th.

In connection with the reports that the Treasury is considering the question of preference for India and Ceylon teas, the Times trade supplement points out that in 1917 India and Ceylon supplied to the United Kingdom 88 per cent. and China 6 per cent. and probably the demand for tea will exceed the supply during the next few years. Thus, the British-grown teas at present do not require protection.

The feeling in Mincing Lane is that protection will be disadvantageous, tending to deprive London of her pride of place as a re-exporting centre.

On the contrary, it is suggested that an extra duty may be levied on all teas shipped to the United Kingdom from ports other than those in the country of origin. Such a duty will tend to attract to London 32,000,000 lbs. weight of Java teas, previously imported from Amsterdam.

THE PEACE CONFERENCE.

REPARATION QUESTION SETTLED.

Paris, April 13th.

A Radical Socialist delegation interviewed Mr. Clemenceau and emphasised that it was indispensable that the conditions should include the establishment of a strong frontier. The disarmament of Germany should be assured by permanent control.

As regards reparation their minimum demand included the placing of the Saar coal mines at the disposal of France, complete reparation for all personal and material damage, and the payment of all war pensions.

Mr. Clemenceau said these views were his also, adding: "Today the question of reparation has been settled between the Allies on the aforementioned basis."

The delegation subsequently stated that they received an impression that the Labour Conference was on the point of concluding its sessions, and that, in a very few days, a full public statement would be made.

THE SUM FIXED UPON.

Paris, April 13th.

The Council of Four has fixed a provisional sum which Germany must pay for reparation and restitution, 135,000 million francs, of which 50 per cent. has been allotted to France. The whole sum may be paid in either gold, raw materials, or negotiable securities, in annual instalments, the minimum amount of which will be laid down by the Peace Treaty.

RESTITUTION IN FULL.

Germany must make restitution and reparation in full, but it is impossible at present to fix the price to be paid, owing to the variation of the prices of raw materials and labour.

GERMANY MUST PAY FRENCH WAR PENSIONS.

Lastly, the cost of the French military pensions, namely, 4,000 million francs yearly, must also be defrayed by Germany.

SAAR MINES IN PERPETUITY TO FRANCE.

Paris, April 13th.

French diplomats state that the Council of Four has decided that the ownership of the Saar mines be assured to France in perpetuity. France will police the Saar district, and the political sovereignty will be exercised by a sort of directorate of five members, under the League of Nations for fifteen years, after which the inhabitants will be entitled to decide their political status by plebiscite. If they then desire to remain under German administration, Germany must buy back the mines from France.

LIMITATION OF ARMAMENTS.

French diplomats state that the Peace Treaty will provide the means of controlling the elimination of armaments, the reduction of war material, etc., by Germany. All conditions will be guaranteed not only by the League of Nations but by alliances between the Great Powers.

WHAT CAN GERMANY PAY?

London, April 14th.

Mr. Claude Lowther, M.P., has telegraphed to Mr. Lloyd George assuring him that the message from Mr. Kennedy Jones was framed in no spirit of disloyalty, but hoping that what Germany will have to pay to-day will be merely payment on account, the amount which Germany will finally pay not to be decided until the potential resources of Germany can be more fully gauged than at present.

Mr. Lloyd George replied that experts were taking full account of further possibilities.

GERMAN DELEGATES SUMMONED FOR FRIDAY NEXT.

Paris, April 14th.

A communiqué states that, on behalf of the Council of Four, President Wilson stated to-night that questions affecting the peace settlement with Germany will be no near complete solution that it had been decided to invite the German plenipotentiaries to meet the Allied representatives at Versailles on April 25th.

It is expected that rapid progress will now be made with other questions connected with the general peace settlement and a speedy agreement reached on questions affecting Italy, especially the Adriatic question, which will be given precedence.

DISCUSSION AT THE CONFERENCE.

Paris, April 15th.

It is expected in French circles that at Versailles, the Germans will not be allowed to discuss the territorial and military stipulations which they have to accept integrally, but perhaps they will be permitted to discuss the financial and economic terms.

THE DIFFICULTIES AHEAD.

London, April 11th.

Mr. Winston Churchill made an important speech at a luncheon at the Aldwych Club.

He declared: "We shall soon know whether the enemy will accept our terms or whether fresh measures will be necessary on our part."

He urged the people not to condemn particular points in the Paris Conference upon fragmentary disclosures, but to wait and judge the peace terms as a whole. He pleaded for patience for a little longer, because the ablest men in Paris were concentrating their energies night and day upon the task of a general settlement.

Meanwhile, they were entitled to receive the fullest public confidence and sympathy until they presented the whole case. Continuing, Mr. Churchill said that, owing to the nature of the problems to be solved, they could not be solved to universal satisfaction.

Mr. Churchill, continuing, said: "Nobody is going to get all they want. Everybody must expect to have something to grumble about. It is not a game of grab, but a quest of peace."

PREMIER'S IMPORTANT SPEECH.

London, April 10th.

Mr. Lloyd George, in a speech in the House of Commons, emphasised the gigantic character of the task of the Peace Conference. No previous Conference was confronted with problems of such variety, complexity, magnitude and gravity. The Congress of Vienna, which was the nearest approach to the present Conference, occupied eleven months and its problems were insignificant compared to those of the present Conference.

He pointed out that ten States had sprung into existence some independent, some semi-independent, some possibly protectorates, the boundaries of which must be indicated, if not defined. The boundaries of fourteen countries must be re-vested.

WHY MATTERS COULD NOT BE HURRIED.

This gave some idea of the purely territorial difficulties, but there were other problems equally great and important and equally affecting the peace of the world and human destiny, in each of which, if blunders were made, humanity might have to pay.

As examples, there were the questions of armaments, economics, international waterways and railways, and indemnities. The question of indemnities was not easy and could not even be settled by telegram. (Laughter and cheers.)

INTERNATIONAL LABOUR.

The Premier referred to the international arrangements for Labour which had never hitherto been attempted. He paid a glowing tribute to the services of Mr. Barnes and to the assistance of the Labour members and the Trade Unionists, whereby a great world scheme had been adopted.

There was also that great experiment, on which the whole peace hung, namely, the Society of Nations. All and each of these separately would occupy months. A blunder might precipitate a universal war. With almost every nation on earth engaged in considering these problems they were justified in taking some time. (Cheers.)

THE LEAGUE SAVING TIME.

It would have been imperative in some respects if they took more time, but for the fact that they were establishing a machinery capable of re-adjusting and correcting possible mistakes. That was why the League of Nations, instead of wasting, saved time. They had to shorten and hasten its labours, because, while trying to build, they had seen, in the hands of the foundations of Society crumbling into dust.

No body of men worked harder and more harmoniously, or under greater difficulties. The journey was not at an end. It was still full of perils for all lands and peoples. He begged that the men who were doing their best be left in peace—or others sent.

CONFLICT BETWEEN ALLIED STATES AVERTED.

The Premier referred to the intrinsic difficulties of dealing with problems of a multitude of nations with varying interests. He believed the difficulties would be surmounted, but that was not easy of accomplishment.

There were questions one never heard of, which almost imperilled the peace of Europe. While they were sitting in Paris, a question they never heard of before the war nearly precipitated a conflict between two Allied States. There were a number of such questions.

THE DIFFICULTIES IN THE BALKANS.

The difficulties in the Balkans had created an atmosphere of unrest, from which the war arose, and one of the features of the present situation was that, owing to the break-up of the great empires, Central Europe had been "Balkanised" into small States. Care must be taken lest causes of future unrest be created by the settlement now being made.

COMPLETE AGREEMENT.

Paris, April 14th.

A Havas message says: "Replying to a deputation of the members of the French Chamber asking for assurance that the Peace Conference would exact from Germany terms guaranteeing to France full reparation and security, Mr. Clemenceau said the recent difficulties had been smoothed out. Complete accord now existed on the reparation question. Regarding the Saar basin, almost complete accord had been reached."

BRITISH LABOUR.

MR. JUSTICE SANKEY'S REPORT ACCEPTED BY MINERS.

London, April 13th.

The result of the ballots of the miners in eleven coal fields show that 402,000 are in favour of accepting the Sankey report and 53,826 miners are against the proposal. The latter include the miners of South Wales, who, on January 7th, were in favour of acceptance although the local leaders advised rejection.

THE ARMENIAN MASSACRES.

ONE MURDERER PUBLICLY HANGED.

Constantinople, April 14th.

At the trial for being concerned in the Armenian massacres, the Governor of Kemal was sentenced to death, and publicly hanged at Stambul, while the ex-Commander of the Gendarmerie at Yengid was sentenced to fifteen years' imprisonment.

THE MENACE OF BOLSHIEVISM.

THE WORST TYRANNY IN HISTORY.

London, April 15th.

Mr. Winston Churchill, at a luncheon at the Aldwych Club, described Bolshevism as the worst tyranny in history, which was far worse than German militarism. The atrocities committed by Lenin and Trotsky were incomparably more hideous, and on a larger scale, than any the Kaiser was responsible for.

OUR TROOPS IN NORTH RUSSIA.

Our men in Northern Russia, said Mr. Churchill, would be properly supported and relieved faithfully. (Cheers.) He said the Premier had given him the fullest authority to take whatever measures the General Staff thought necessary to relieve all our forces there, and in so far as was physically possible, we would take whatever measures were required.

THE COMPLEX RUSSIAN SITUATION.

London, April 15th.

Mr. Lloyd George, in the course of his speech in the House of Commons, said: "The Russian situation was one of the most complex problems ever dealt with by any body of men. One difficulty was that there was no Russia. Nobody could say the organisation controlling Central Russia was even a de facto government for the whole of Russia. They had the spectacle of a vast country in chaos, confusion and anarchy."

"It is just like a volcano," said Mr. Lloyd George, "which is still in fieri eruption, and the best you can do is to provide security for those dwelling on the remotest, and least accessible slopes, and arrest the devastating flow of lava, so that it shall not scorch other lands."

NO QUESTION OF RECOGNITION.

There was no question of recognition. It had never been proposed, and never been discussed, because no Government represented the whole of Russia, and because the Bolshevik Government had committed crimes against the Allied subjects which would make it impossible to recognise them even under other circumstances, and because even at this moment they were attacking our friends in Russia.

MILITARY INTERVENTION.

The Premier, examining the proposal favouring military intervention, said it was a very sound fundamental principle in our foreign policy that we never interfered in the internal affairs of other countries, however badly governed, and notwithstanding the state of British feeling, the practical difficulties of a gigantic military enterprise into Russia were immense.

Russia had often been invaded but had never been conquered by a foreign foe. Even if conquest were possible, the political and practical difficulties remained.

WHY ALLIES DID NOT INTERVENE.

He was horrified at the Bolshevik teachings, but would rather leave Russia to the Bolsheviks until she saw what Bolshevism was doing than see Great Britain made bankrupt by costly military intervention because that would be the surest road to spread Bolshevism in Britain. (Cheers.)

He was convinced that to attempt military intervention in Russia would be the greatest stupidity. The Government had supported Admiral Koltchak and General Denikin because they revolted against the Bolshevik Government, and against our investigation and largely at our expense, and prevented the Germans from securing the resources of Russia which would have enabled them to break the blockade.

IF BOLSHIEVISM ATTACKED THE ALLIES.

If Bolshevism attacked any of our Allies it was our business to defend them. The world would not be passive as long as Russia was torn and rent by a civil war. Our policy was to induce the warring parties in Russia to meet and discuss the establishment of a commonly acceptable authority which the Allies could recognise as the Russian Government.

He did not despair of a solution. There were even now promising factors, and reliable information indicated that while the Bolshevik forces were apparently growing in strength, Bolshevism itself was rapidly waning and breaking down before our relentless economic pressure.

FINANCIAL RELATIONS WITH BOLSHIEVISM.

Paris, April 14th.

A Havas message says: "The French papers note the tendency of the Scandinavian countries, notably Sweden, to open financial relations with the Bolsheviks. The tendency is favoured by certain American circles."

THE FRENCH GOVERNMENT CANNOT ADMIT THE VALIDITY OF SUCH NEGOTIATIONS.

LEMBERG BOMBARDED BY UKRAINIANS.

Lemberg, April 13th.

The Ukrainians heavily bombarded the town on Thursday and Friday. Many were killed and wounded.

BOLSHIEVISM MOBILISATION AT RIGA.

Copenhagen, April 14th.

A message from Libau says the Bolsheviks have mobilised all males at Riga from 18 to 38 years of age and sent many to Central Russia, including three hundred prominent personages as hostages.

MOSCOW DELEGATES TO MEET ALLIES.

Zurich, April 14th.

The Deutsche Tages Zeitung states that emissaries from the Moscow Government have started with the object of entering into pourparlers with the Entente.

AERIAL DEVELOPMENT.

A TRANS-ATLANTIC FLIGHT.

St. John (Newfoundland), April 12th.

Mr. S. Hawker, using a Sopwith aeroplane, was announced to start a trans Atlantic flight at 6 o'clock this evening, but the flight was postponed at the last moment, owing to bad weather.

St. John, April 13th.

Mr. Hawker is planning to start about noon to-day. There was heavy rain throughout the night, which still continues. Therefore, he is rushing to start, but conditions become worse in the afternoon.

UNFAVOURABLE WEATHER CONDITIONS.

Later.

It is still raining and there is a dense fog. Mr. Hawker's flight has been postponed till this afternoon.

Later.

This afternoon the weather continues unfavourable. A flight is unlikely before tomorrow.

St. John, April 15th.

Owing to unfavourable weather conditions, Mr. Hawker's flight has been postponed, possibly for a couple of days.

SOME OF THE DIFFICULTIES.

London, April 14th.

The matter of wind and weather over the Atlantic is regarded as the principal difficulty in connection with the great attempted trans-ocean flights. Sea surface conditions in no wise correspond with the upper air.

The fact that wind frequently travels from north to south instead of from east to west renders a dependable forecast almost impossible. The wind will probably be absent of the fliers and result in a marked drift which no aeronautical instrument is yet capable of determining.

The only means fliers have of discovering the general locality is by keeping in wireless touch with ships. Even where due allowance for wind is ascertainable, the drift must lengthen the journey.

Another important consideration is how far advantage may be taken of the wind without opening the throttle of the engine to the fullest extent. In the trans-Atlantic flight, a compromise will be struck, due attention being paid to the need of keeping the engine always within its work.

The position will be complicated by sudden wind changes, necessitating the pilot simply taking his chance.

Fog, which is the aviator's worst enemy, is at present prevalent in New foundland.

Experts differ regarding the superior merits of simple and multiple engines, but it is noteworthy that the Australian, Mr. Hawker (news of whose flight is awaited with intense interest) favours the former, which is embodied in the Sopwith aeroplane on which he is relying. The engine will be severely tried. It is roughly estimated to do two million revolutions unintermittently.

CIVILIAN FLYING.

London, April 14th.

In the House of Commons Brigadier-General B. Seely stated that civilian flying would begin about May 1st.

CRISIS IN CENTRAL EUROPE.

BRITISH WARNING TO GERMAN AUSTRIA.

Vienna, April 13th.

The British Military representative has informed the Government that if disturbances occur in German-Austria further importation of foodstuffs and raw materials will be stopped immediately.

A message from Budapest says Herr Belaui, in a violent speech, said: "We will not lay down our arms until the bourgeoisie is completely crushed."

IRELAND.

GENERAL STRIKES AT LIMERICK AND CORK.

London, April 15th.

A general strike has been declared at Limerick to protest against the proclamation of the city as a military area. Business is paralysed and the food situation is arousing anxiety. There is no disorder. A similar situation exists at Cork.

THE LEAGUE OF NATIONS.

PRESIDENT WILSON OPPOSED TO BRUSSELS AS SEAT.

Paris, April 12th.

The League of Nations' Commission, under the presidency of President Wilson, has adopted the new draft Covenant entirely. The French maintain their reservations of two points in the Covenant, which will be shortly presented to the Plenary Peace Conference.

The newspapers, criticising the question of Brussels being made the seat of the League of Nations, say that President Wilson is opposed to it on the ground that the memory of the German war actions would be too near and tending to admit of the founding of a base at Belgium for the reconciliation of the peoples.

FRENCH AMENDMENTS EXCLUDED.

Paris, April 13th.

The French amendments which are not included in the 'League of Nations' Covenant are those which proposed to organise effective control and manufacture of war material and to establish a permanent inter-Allied organization for military control.

The Japanese amendment, affirming the principle of racial equality, is also excluded from the final draft.

Japan also reserves the right of bringing up an amendment at the Plenary Conference.
